Strategic Asia 200405:

Strategic Asia 2008-09: Challenges and Choices National Bureau of Asian Research (U.S.), 2008 The eighth volume in NBR's Strategic Asia series assesses the major strategic choices on Asia facing the new U.S. president and administration as well as the broader policy community. Through a combination of country, regional, and topical studies, the book analyzes the impact of U.S. policy and geopolitical developments on Asia's transformation over the past eight years.

Strategic Asia

2013-14 Ashley J. Tellis, Abraham M. Denmark, Travis Tanner, 2013-09-25 The 2013-14 Strategic Asia volume examines the role of nuclear weapons in the grand strategies of key Asian states and assesses the impact of these capabilities both established and latent on regional and international stability. In each chapter, a leading expert explores the historical, strategic, and political factors that drive a country's calculations vis-à-vis nuclear weapons and draws implications for American interests.

Strategic Asia 2012-13: China's Military Challenge Dan Blumenthal, 2012 In Strategic Asia 2012-13, China's Military Challenge, leading experts assess and forecast the impact of China's growing military capabilities. What are China's strategic aims? What are the challenges and opportunities facing the United States? How is the region responding to China's military power and to the U.S. policy of strategic rebalancing?

Strategic Asia 2011-12: Asia Responds to Its Rising Powers M. Taylor Fravel, 2011

Strategic Asia 2009-10: Economic Meltdown and Geopolitical Stability Ashley J. Tellis, Mercy Kuo, Andrew Marble, 2009 Examines the effects of the global economic crisis on the economic performance and strategic goals of selected Asian states. Discusses implications of the crisis for the power and hegemony of the United States. Considers attitudes of Asian powers toward nuclear nonproliferation and disarmament.

Strategic Asia 2010-11: Asia's Rising Power and America's Continued Purpose Ashley J. Tellis, Andrew Marble, Travis Tanner, 2010-09-29 Strategic Asia 2010-11, Asia's Rising Power and America's Continued Purpose, marks the tenth anniversary edition of NBR's Strategic Asia series and takes stock of the Strategic Asia region by providing an integrated perspective on the major issues that influence stability in the region. In this volume, leading experts examine Asia's performance in nine key functional areas to provide a continent-wide net assessment of the core trends and issues affecting the region.

Handbook of Defence Politics Isaiah "Ike" Wilson III, James J.F. Forrest, 2011-03-28 Issues of defence politics and policy have long been at the forefront of political agendas and defining of international affairs. However, the dramatic changes to the global system that have taken place since the end of the Cold War and particularly since the terror attacks on the USA on 11 September 2001 have amplified the world's attention toward political and policy issues of national, regional, and global security.

The focus of this volume is on examining the fundamental causes of and defence policy responses to this new post-9/11 security environment. Edited by Isaiah Ike Wilson III and James J.F. Forrest of the US Military Academy, West Point, USA, this volume is international in scope, with pieces written by experts in the field offering a collection of up-to-date and balanced insights on key contemporary issues of concern to defence policymakers. The book will be an invaluable reference tool for academics and students.

questions and concerns that follow China's successful integration into the international economy and global institutions. The National Bureau of Asian Research NBR is pleased to present four essays that evaluate the implications of the deputy secretary's speech p 3 China's Energy Strategy Gabriel B. Collins, 2008 A variety of viewpoints is offered in this timely analysis of China's economy and the future shape of Beijing's energy consumption. The authors all noted authorities in the fields of economics, diplomacy, energy and defense consider an unprecedented range of influences and factors to avoid the limitations of looking at the subject myopically or with political bias. They conclude that while energy insecurity could eventually lead to an arms race at sea or even a naval conflict that neither side wants, there is ample room for Sino-American energy dialogue and cooperation in the maritime domain.

Contemporary Southeast Asia, 2008 Framing Security Agendas Rosemary Foot, 2008 What has it meant to be labeled the second front in the global war on terror? Have Southeast Asian states accepted that the primary threat their countries face is Al Qaeda inspired terrorist violence or are other security concerns deemed more pressing? This study investigates threat perceptions in four Southeast Asian countries: Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines and Singapore. It probes the extent to which their security concerns align with those of Washington, together with their preferred means for dealing with the phenomenon of terrorist violence. The central findings are that in all four countries the U.S. counterterrorist security agenda has shaped security perceptions as well as security behavior, though to a greater extent in the Philippines and Singapore than in Indonesia and Malaysia. However, the most important effect in Southeast Asia of this change in the U.S. security priority after 9/11 has been sociopolitical in nature, even where an individual government might not perceive the threat from terrorism to be the major security challenge that it faces. In each of the four states, involvement in the U.S. decision to give overwhelming attention to counterterrorist action has sharpened the focus on long standing security concerns, especially those connected with the security of the political regime or unity of society. In sum, these countries' domestic concerns interact in complex and subtle ways with their security relationship with the United States as well as affecting the methods that the individual governments have used to deal with actual or potential terrorist violence inside their countries European Journal of East Asian Studies ,2008 Reluctant Restraint Evan S. Medeiros,2007 This book examines how and why China has moved over the last twenty years from opposing nonproliferation of missiles and nuclear weapons to support proliferation
