and they promise her it won't be a forced marriage. She can't see how they're supposed to agree on a husband for her when she can't even agree with her mum on a saree. Still Maya's tired of swiping left or right for romances with the lifespan of fruit flies. So after much careful deliberation she gives in to her parents. Maybe this could be her chance to find the one. It will be fine. Right. Except what starts as a hopeful search for love soon spirals into a whirlwind of speed dating, societal expectations and all the chaos of navigating your twenties. With the pressure building up, Maya soon finds herself questioning if she's falling into exactly what her parents promised it wouldn't be a forced marriage. Will Maya find love or be able to live the life she dreams of?

The Archaic Maya Inscriptions J. T. Goodman, 1897      Aids to the Study of the Maya Codices Cyrus Thomas, 1888      Maya Sacred Geography and the Creator Deities Karen Bassie-Sweet, 2008

The K'iche' Maya creation story preserved in the sixteenth-century manuscript Popol Vuh describes the origin of the world and its people in a setting long assumed to be the Guatemalan central highlands. Now a scholar with a deep knowledge of Maya history shows that all of these mythological events occurred at specific locations and that this landscape was the template for the Maya worldview. Examining the primary Maya deities, Karen Bassie Sweet links geographic features to gods and beliefs. She reconstructs key elements of the Popol Vuh to argue that the three volcanoes around Lake Atitlán were the three thunderbolt gods and that the lake was the center of the world. She also shows that the Maya view of the creation of humans is centered on corn and examines core beliefs about the corn cycle to propose that the creation myth was established much earlier in Maya history than previously supposed. Generously illustrated, Maya Sacred Geography and the Creator Deities is a detailed ethnohistorical analysis of Maya religion, cosmology and ritual practice that convincingly links mythology to the land. A comprehensive treatment of Maya religion, it provides an essential resource for scholars and will fascinate any reader captivated by these ancient beliefs.

The London Journal: and Weekly Record of Literature, Science, and Art, 1877      Cultural Logics and Global Economies Edward F. Fischer, 2001

A Choice Outstanding Academic Book 2002. As ideas, goods and people move with increasing ease and speed across national boundaries and geographic distances, the economic changes and technological advances that enable this globalization are also paradoxically contributing to the balkanization of states, ethnic groups and special interest movements. Exploring how this process is playing out in Guatemala, this book presents an innovative synthesis of the local and global factors that have led Guatemala's indigenous Maya peoples to assert and defend their cultural identity and distinctiveness within the dominant Hispanic society. Drawing on recent theories from cognitive studies, interpretive ethnography and political economy, Edward F. Fischer looks at individual Maya activists and local cultures as well as changing national and international power relations to understand how ethnic identities are constructed and expressed in the modern world. At the global level, he shows how structural shifts in international relations have opened new venues of ethnic expression for Guatemala's majority Maya population. At the local level, he examines the processes of identity construction in two Kaqchikel Maya towns, Tecpán and Patzún, and shows how divergent local norms result in different conceptions and expressions of Mayaness which nonetheless share certain fundamental similarities with the larger pan Maya project. Tying these levels of analysis together, Fischer argues that open-ended Maya cultural logics condition the ways in which Mayan individuals, national leaders, and rural masses alike creatively express their identity in a rapidly changing world. Mexico, 2008. Maya Mission Lawrence Dame, 1968. Tangweera Charles Napier Bell, 1899. Talking Book Topics, 1995.
