Robertson Davies brought a great sense of style to everything he wrote Whether it was a letter to his daughter Love from us both Daddy or a formal letter to the editor disembowelling a hostile reviewer that concludes humbly I am content to remain Yours writhing in deserved ignominy he wrote with care with zest and in a clearly distinctive voice Since these letters written by Davies have been selected from the years when he was at the height of his fame the recipients range widely from Sir John Gielgud to Margaret Atwood and from Greg Gatenby You are a merciless man and God will punish you in the next world to his publishers abroad Naturally like all the best letters they contain fascinating gossip and Salvador Dali at the next table raised his eyebrows and popped his eyes to such a degree that I feared they might leave their moorings and bounce about the floor The title of the book comes from a confidential letter to Jack McClelland and hints at the secrets to be learned from these letters This over the shoulder look at his private correspondence shows us Davies in a variety of roles as an old friend consoling Horace Davenport on the loss of his son as a university administrator bewailing the miseries of fundraising as a keen theatre goer writing a letter of congratulations to an actor after a fine performance as a professional writer advocating fair rates for authors to a cabinet minister as a husband constructing a handwritten circular card to convey loving birthday greetings to his wife as a bearer of health giving good cheer to an ailing friend and as a novelist struggling with his new books and admitting to his doubts about them The letters are frequently testy tart and not always politically correct Among those who felt his sting are Judith Skelton Grant his biographer and Douglas Gibson his publisher but other more deserving targets are suitably chastised And whether they are funny moving or thought provoking these private letters provide a new look at the private Davies revealed in his own vigorous words Kirkus Reviews ,1986 Adult books are categorized by genre i e fiction mystery science fiction nonfiction Along with bibliographic information the expected date of publication and the names of literary agents for individual titles are provided Starred reviews serve several functions In the adult section they mark potential bestsellers major promotions book club selections and just very good books in the children s section they denote books of very high quality The unsigned reviews manage to be discerning and sometimes quite critical Jim Kobak's Kirkus Reviews ,1986
