Speak Mandarin Not Dialect:

A Study of Attitudes of Dialect Speakers Towards the Speak Mandarin Campaign in Singapore Patrick Chin Leong Ng, 2017-01-19 This book makes an original contribution to the fields of sociolinguistics language planning policy and Chinese language studies. It examines the effectiveness of the Singapore's Speak Mandarin Campaign in changing the language use of dialect speakers towards Mandarin. Singapore may be only a small red dot and barely visible on the world's map. However its complex and dynamic linguistic diversity and its quadrilingual educational system make it a unique and fascinating research site for examining deliberate language planning on the part of governmental authorities. 2017 marks the 38th anniversary of the Speak Mandarin Campaign a focused language planning policy aimed at changing the deeply entrenched sociolinguistic habits of Chinese Singaporeans who are used to speaking Chinese dialects. This book provides a revealing update on dialect speakers attitudes towards the campaign by including discussions and other related issues such as the recent call for the revitalisation of Chinese dialects by younger dialect speakers Chinese students attitude towards learning Mandarin in schools the encroachment of English in the home environment the spread and dominance of English in the local linguistic landscape and the challenges of maintaining Mandarin as a language of use and preference

Language without Rights

Lionel Wee, 2010-12-10 Language without Rights is a book length critique of the concept of language rights. Synthesizing insights from a variety of disciplines including linguistic anthropology sociolinguistics sociology and political philosophy Wee demonstrates how the appeal to language rights faces a number of conceptual and practical problems particularly because the discourse of rights is fundamentally inconsistent with the socially variable nature of language. The book also explores an alternative that is more in tune with the complexities of language in social life by suggesting that issues involving language are better managed within a model of deliberative democracy

This book asks several critical questions relevant to those interested in public policy What is a nudge What are the ethical implications of and justifications for nudges Are we able to have nudges without affecting one's freedom to choose In what institutional context are nudges likely to work well and in what context are they likely to fail The text explores several real world instances of government attempts at successful choice architecture across a wide range of policy topics internet privacy laws environmental policy education policy the sharing economy and creating a national culture This approach also highlights the spontaneous and evolutionary nature of social institutions like culture and trust Attempts from policymakers to generate these social institutions where they did not exist previously are unlikely to succeed unless they are aligned with the unique characteristics of the society in question This raises the question of whether the seemingly successful policy interventions were even necessary A few of the chapters in this book directly examine these issues through case studies of both Latin America and Singapore Each chapter in this volume explores the ways in which individuals in society respond to attempts by policymakers to nudge them towards a specific outcome Some chapters explore the theoretical arguments in favor of utilizing this behavioral policy approach Others explore the feasibility and potential limitations of this approach to public policy Several of the chapters apply market process theory to understand a particular case study where nudge policies have been put into practice The chapters authored by an interdisciplinary group of policy scholars include discussions of internet privacy laws the sharing economy education policy environmental policy as well as social issues such as trust and culture Language Maintenance and Language Shift Among the Chinese on Taiwan Russell Young,1989 Yu Yen Tzu Erh Chi: a Progressive Course of Colloquial Chinese as Spoken in the Capital and the Metropolitan Department.
