

Objectivity: An Introduction

Students demonstrate an ability to describe an experience after reading historic documents simply from the documents without specifying or putting the experience in a particular (the best or worst) circumstance that is more or less appropriate when good or bad events are experienced. Students will compare the typical circumstances with the circumstances they read across the years of the experience that provide context and, therefore, whether the experience is positive or negative or both. Students will identify the context described in each given range, and it is recommended that a strong history teacher will provide to the class a list of circumstances that are positive or negative or both. Students will describe the circumstances that provide context and, therefore, whether the experience is positive or negative or both.
