Sublime Subjects Giuseppe Civitarese,2017-11-07 Sublime Subjects explores two fundamental questions what is the start of humanity When and how does a newborn child become a subject These are relevant to psychoanalysis not only theoretically but also in clinical practice where the issue at stake is how to help the analysand's mind to grow or better to increase the ability to give a meaning to experience Giuseppe Civitarese here argues that the psychoanalytic theory of sublimation and the aesthetic theory of the sublime are theories of subjectivation that can illuminate each other and give us a better understanding of the birth of the psyche The aesthetic experience in art and in psychoanalytic practice are concerned with the social constitution of the individual understood at its pre reflective non verbal or inter corporeal level It is at this level that thanks to the encounter with a receptive other the turbulences of sensations and proto emotions become soothing rhythms proto ideas or sensible ideas at first and once words are added concepts In Bionian terms the at one moment between mother and baby is a form of primordial abstraction and occurs first in the dimension of the purely sensory and indistinct and then in the affective space which nonetheless is always a symbolic space if we take account that sociality is provided for the couple system by the mother It is exactly the intersubjective process of elevating toward conceptual thinking but without ever detaching oneself from the thinking deposited in the body as procedural knowledge that justifies the definition adopted here of human beings as Sublime Subjects This book explores these topics not only through the lens of the concept of sublimation or the theory of the sublime but also through those of masochism hypochondria truth and two readings of classical Freudian papers such as the clinical case of Dora and Formulations on the two principles of mental functioning Sublime Subjects will appeal to psychoanalysts and psychoanalytic psychotherapists as well as literature and philosophy scholars The Blazing Sublime Ann Casement,Phil Goss,Dany Nobus,2018-12-31 The Blazing Sublime was seeded by the first ever joint Jung Lacan conference at Cambridge England Broadly oriented by the protean notion of the sublime the conference was held against the backdrop of the one hundredth anniversary of the outbreak of The Great War which radically changed many of the western world's rational values and belief systems Over a glorious weekend at St John's College more than forty clinicians and academics from both psychoanalytic traditions came together to debate aspects of creativity and destruction inherent in the monstrous awe inspiring sublime via the application of a depth psychological lens The chapters in this book include some of the outcrop of this conference with the addition of various new contributors and they will excite readers by their display of similarities and differences between Jungian and Lacanian thinking on key topics such as language linguistics literature religion self subject science mathematics and philosophy The overall objective of this vitalizing volume is the dissemination of new ideas that will attract practising psychoanalysts psychotherapists and academics in the field as well as all those who are piqued by the still revolutionary thinking of Jung and Lacan Intuition in Psychotherapy and Counselling Rachel Charles,2004-10 Since nonverbal messages have been shown to dominate interpersonal communication and since their cues are gathered intuitively it is clearly a distinct advantage for therapists and counsellors to be familiar with this phenomenon Based on original research into intuition within clinical practice Rachel Charles provides in depth explanations of the process appropriately illustrated with models and case histories This includes intuition's allo logical and global aspects its relationship to empathy and its links with spiritual practice A theoretical framework is thus provided for its comprehension and teaching While some people are naturally more intuitive than others the author makes a number of practical recommendations whereby the faculty of intuition can be cultivated by therapists increasing receptivity to unconscious messages and helping the client to achieve insight Clinicians training institutes their tutors and students and indeed anyone working with people will find this book a valuable resource for the enhancement of professional practice

Person-Centred Counselling and Christian Spirituality Brian Thorne,1998 This second volume of Brian Thorne's collected works shows convincingly that the spiritual needs and yearnings of many clients presenting themselves to secular counsellors can no longer be ignored trivialised or pathologised The book constitutes an impassioned plea both to person centred therapists to acknowledge the centrality of spiritual issues for many of their clients and also to Christians to embrace the richness of their spiritual tradition without becoming entangled in the death dealing complexity of religious and institutional power mongering Shame and Sexuality Claire Pajaczkowska,Ivan Ward,2008 First Published in 2008 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,2000 The Rutgers Art Review ,2007 Psychoanalysis and Contemporary Thought ,2002
