Abstract

This essay is addressing the issues of teachers, their work place and their motivation, additionally analyzing the issue when the standards of trust and moral responsiveness which attributed to administrators and supervisors are higher than to teachers.

Introduction

In analyzing the administration and supervision as a general concept, some other issues such as responsibility and moral values should be addressed. This statement is especially true when the concept of administration is realized in such a work place as school. The school and the educational system as whole is combined of such factors as competency and effectiveness. However, these issues should be realized in different perspectives according to the teachers and indeed the school administration.

Analysis

School always reflects the processes of changes in the all spheres of the vital activities of people. The reconstructions in the society created real prerequisites for the democratization and humanizations of schools, for the renovation of control system of education.

If understanding the motives, which impel man to be active, it is possible to purposefully influence his behavior and his performance. Analysis and actualization of motives have important significance for the administrative sectors. In addition it could be noted that leaders, teachers, trainer, who are familiar on how to motivate others, in general, reach considerable results.

The motivation in general and the motivation of the teacher in particular, is one of the fundamental problems for psychology and pedagogy. Its significance for the

Supportive Supervision In Schools:

Supportive Supervision in Schools Raymond C. Garubo, Stanley William Rothstein, 1998-01-26 Does fear or trust dominate relationships in your school's classrooms? How well do supervisors listen to and respond to teachers? How well do teachers listen to and respond to students? How are problems identified and solved? Supportive Supervision in Schools is a guide for teachers and administrators who want to create good school climates and a school culture that encourages professional growth and development among staff members. It uses a conferencing method to allow teachers, administrators, and students to discuss and reflect upon what they are doing inside the school building. Old ideas about leadership models have not been supported by empirical research and have not influenced the way school leaders and teachers do their work. This book points to specific skill areas that need attention. It specifies that the creation of supportive environments occurs in weekly individual and group conferences. The authors stress the importance of listening and speaking so that messages are not distorted or misunderstood and emphasize trust building. Using actual examples, this work shows how to construct supportive environments and how to identify and resolve problems.

Supportive Supervision Albert J. Coppola, Diane B. Scricca, Gerard E. Connors, 2004-02-20 This is a comprehensive and exceptionally practical blueprint for school supervision in the 21st century. At a time when national standards for administrative preparation are in the wings, this book should become required reading in schools of educational administration. John Kappenberg, Director of Research, Sewanhaka Central High School, Floral Park, NY. Successfully meet the needs of staff and students and become a teacher of teachers. As an administrator, new or experienced, you are faced with a myriad of administrative, curricular, and supervisory tasks while at the same time expected to provide ongoing professional training for your staff. How well prepared are you to deal effectively with the day to day business of supervising teachers? What specific support and training opportunities did you receive in order to be the successful leader everyone expects? Supportive Supervision offers that much-needed and fully integrated support system for the building level supervisor. By providing a clear path and focus, the authors present a highly usable hands-on guide that will help fill in the blanks created by districts and schools unable to distribute resources equally for the development and training of their supervisors. Using a practical approach, chapters focus on key points including: Improving your own leadership and supervisory skills; Collaborating with staff on establishing school wide goals focused on academic improvement; Implementing effective lesson planning with supportive and meaningful classroom observations; Recruiting and hiring the right teachers while meeting the professional development needs of all staff; A three part process and writing mode for the annual teacher evaluation; Achieve what you first set out to do when you became an administrator; Embrace the future by creating a school environment that successfully and creatively meets the needs of all staff and students.
