Collins and Victoria Mayer here examine the situations of these women in light of the 1996 national Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act and other like minded reforms laws that ended the entitlement to welfare for those in need and provided an incentive for them to return to work Arguing that this reform came at a time of gendered change in the labor force and profound shifts in the responsibilities of family firms and the state Both Hands Tied provides a stark but poignant portrait of how welfare reform afflicted poor single parent families ultimately eroding the participants economic rights and affecting their ability to care for themselves and their children
