Scott C. Dulebohn

Strength For The Morning:

Chancellorsville Gary W. Gallagher,1996 Chancellorsville was a remarkable victory for Lee's troops who were outnumbered two to one. The campaign had enormous psychological importance for both sides who had met recently at Fredericksburg and would meet again at Gettysburg in just two months. But the victory while stunning came at an enormous cost: more than 13 000 Confederates became casualties including Stonewall Jackson who was wounded by friendly fire and died several days later. The topics covered in this volume include the influence of politics on the Union army, the importance of courage among officers, the impact of the war on children, and the state of battlefield medical care. Other essays illuminate the important but overlooked role of Confederate commander Jubal Early, reassess the professionalism of the Union cavalry, investigate the incident of friendly fire that took Stonewall Jackson's life, and analyze the military and political background of Confederate colonel Emory Best's court martial on charges of abandoning his men. Squadron Administration Military Service Publishing Company,1953 Medicinal Fatty Acids in Inflammation Joel Kremer,1998-05-01 This volume of Progress in Inflammation Research is a unique compilation of work performed by a wide spectrum of investigators from different medical disciplines. It is fascinating that dietary alterations of fatty acid intake can result in a range of salutary changes in a great variety of medical conditions. Most of the good scientific work which has led to these observations has been performed over just the last two decades. This is of course not a very long time in the context of the history of the human species. Recently performed analysis of fat intake from paleolithic times has indicated that our hunter gatherer ancestors consumed as much cholesterol as modern Western man but strikingly less saturated fatty acid and more polyunsaturated rates including n 3 fatty acids. Wild game has the terrestrial source of n 3 incorporated in its fat since browsing animals derive 18 3n 3 alpha linolenic acid naturally from leafy plants. There is however little opportunity for modern Western man to get n 3 fatty acids from the diet if one does not consume fish. Modern agribusiness provides animal feeds high in n 6 fatty acids mostly derived from linoleic acid 18 2n 6 in corn feed. Therefore grazing animals have no access to alternative fatty acids in either feed or grasses, the latter containing little or none of these potentially beneficial highly polyunsaturated fatty acids.
