branding in the Middle East and North Africa including some studies from adjacent regions and the wider Islamic world. Going beyond simply presenting logos and slogans it critically analyses processes of strategic communication and image building under general conditions of globalisation, neoliberalisation and postmodernisation and in a regional perspective of lasting authoritarian rule and increased endeavours for worlding. In particular it looks at the multiple actors involved in branding activities, their interests and motives and investigates tools, channels and forms of branding. A major interest exists in the entanglements of different spatial scales and in the inconsistencies of communication measures. Attention is paid to reconfigurations of certain images over time and to the positioning of objects of branding in time and space. Historical case studies supplement the focus on contemporary branding efforts. While branding in the Western world and many emerging economies has been meticulously analysed, this edited volume fills an important gap in the research on MENA countries.

Brown, 2017-05-30. With food supplies tightening, countries are competing for the land and water resources needed to feed their people. With food scarcity driven by falling water tables, eroding soils and rising temperatures, control of arable land and water resources is moving to center stage in the global struggle for food security. In this era of tightening world food supplies, the ability to grow food is fast becoming a new form of geopolitical leverage. Food is the new oil. Lester R. Brown writes: What will the geopolitics of food look like in a new era dominated by scarcity and food nationalism? Brown outlines the political implications of land acquisitions by grain-importing countries in Africa and elsewhere, as well as the world's shrinking buffers against poor harvests. With wisdom accumulated over decades of tracking agricultural issues, Brown exposes the increasingly volatile food situation the world is facing. The Geopolitics and Political Ecology of Hunger Benjamin Wisner, Dan Wiener, Philip O'Keefe, 1981.
