Direct Social Work Practice by Dean H. Hepworth, Ronald H. Rooney, Jo Ann Larsen, 2002. This text prepares social work students for effective work in the field through proven learning experiences that are as close to real life practice as they can get from a textbook. The book has long been praised for the rigor of its theory. It is regarded as the classic and best source for helping students learn direct social work practice skills. The book integrates the major theories and skills that direct social work practitioners need to understand and master. Consisting of four parts, the book begins by identifying the mission of social work, its values and knowledge base. The authors then differentiate generalist from direct practice and explore roles of direct practitioners. Common elements amongst diverse theorists are then examined while key intervention strategies and various client population and practice settings are presented. Specifically, Part One provides the foundational values and knowledge base material. Part Two is devoted to the beginning phase of the helping process. Part Three addresses the middle phase goal attainment strategies and Part Four clarifies the termination phase of direct practice.

Social Work Practice with Groups by Kenneth E. Reid, 1997. This book provides a unique and compassionate perspective on group social work with a focus on clinical settings In an open and user friendly style author Kenneth Reid offers practical day to day strategies to help social workers work with people in small groups in a way that is therapeutic growth producing and life enhancing In addition to integrating small groups theory and therapeutic principles Social Work Practice with Groups also offers numerous clinical examples that bring the material alive and into context Notes to Myself vignettes that begin with each chapter and relate the author's experience to the topics in the chapter while they convey a piece of personal and practical wisdom and a focus on the personhood of the group leader which explores how the practitioner's own personality development and life situation are brought into the therapeutic relationship Bulletin of the Menninger Clinic Menninger Clinic,1988 Growing Up in a Changing World World Federation for Mental Health,1958
