The Diary of a Rapist Evan S. Connell, 1995 The 1960s news of riots war unheard of behavior and rampant crime crowds the papers and the airwaves Spurned by his wife at home and by superiors at work Earl Summerfield hunkers down in his cramped San Francisco apartment and keeps a diary that is a scratched record of a world going to pieces The words he overhears the words he wants to say swim in his head turning into fantasies of ambition love and retribution He is sorry for himself He is angry at everyone He takes to going out night slipping into other people s houses He is looking for something and he fixes on one woman BOOK JACKET

Encyclopedia of the American Novel Abby H. P. Werlock, 2015-04-22 Praise for the print edition no other reference work on American fiction brings together such an array of authors and texts as this

The Diary of a Rapist Evan S. Connell, 2016-05-10 This unnerving work is a contemplation of the middle class existence in a changing world narrated by an unstable man held hostage by his deteriorating mental state The story begins with the unhappy marriage of junior clerk Earl Summerfield to the much older Bianca Feeling victimized by his cold wife and mocking superiors at work Earl decides to keep a diary a chronicle of his apparently crumbling marital relations the paranoia and abuses he is seemingly forced to tolerate at work and the world around him going to pieces in 1960 s San Francisco What he sees what he says what he wants to say everything swarms his head and consciousness inciting and fueling fantasies of love ambition and avenging the violent crimes with which he was become obsessed His angry and unstable mind alternates between feelings of apprehension and disgust and exploring his own violent sexual fantasies and Earl takes action first by breaking into other peoples houses and then fixating on various women before settling with utmost and troubling certainty on the local beauty queen Mara St John s

Post-World War II Masculinities in British and American Literature and Culture Stefan Horlacher, Kevin Floyd, 2016-04-08 Analyzing literary texts plays films and photographs within a transatlantic framework this volume explores the inseparable and mutually influential relationship between different forms of national identity in Great Britain and the United States and the construction of masculinity in each country The contributors take up issues related to how certain kinds of nationally specific masculine identifications are produced how these change over time and how literature and other forms of cultural representation eventually question and deconstruct their own myths of masculinity Focusing on the period from the end of World War II to the 1980s the essays each take up a topic with particular cultural and historical resonance whether it is hypermasculinity in early cold war films the articulation of male anxieties in plays by Arthur Miller David Mamet and Sam Shepard the evolution of photographic depictions of masculinity from the 1960s to the 1980s or the representations of masculinity in the fiction of American and British writers such as Patricia Highsmith Richard Yates John Braine Martin Amis Evan S Connell James Dickey John Berger Philip Roth Frank Chin and Maxine Hong Kingston The editors and contributors make a case for the importance of understanding the larger context for the emergence of more pluralistic culturally differentiated and ultimately transnational masculinities arguing that it is possible to conceptualize and emphasize difference and commonality simultaneously
