

The background of the cover is a vibrant, textured orange. On the left, the arm of the Statue of Liberty is shown in a greyish-blue tone, holding a torch with a flame. The torch's flame is depicted as a series of stacked, circular, lattice-like structures. In the lower right, the crown of the Statue of Liberty is visible, with its seven spikes. The face of the statue is rendered with a unique, multi-faceted appearance, showing three distinct faces with different features, including a mustache on the central face. The overall style is graphic and expressive.

The Dark and Tangled Path: Race in America David D. Anderson, Robert L. Wright, 1971 African Americans in the Reconstruction Era Chungchan Gao, 2015-12-22 This ethnographic study explores the status of African Americans during the Reconstruction era examining the particularities of such topics as race relations social systems legal systems and economic and political status Rather than dealing with the status of African Americans as an isolated human rights issue Gao examines the African American role in American society in the context of American society particularly paying attention to the intellectual roots of the belief system of white and black Americans during the Reconstruction Establishing

Hope Draped in Black Joseph R. Winters,2016-05-20 In Hope Draped in Black Joseph R Winters responds to the enduring belief that America follows a constant trajectory of racial progress Such notions like those that suggested the passage into a postracial era following Barack Obama s election gloss over the history of racial violence and oppression to create an imaginary and self congratulatory world where painful memories are conveniently forgotten In place of these narratives Winters advocates for an idea of hope that is predicated on a continuous engagement with loss and melancholy Signaling a heightened sensitivity to the suffering of others melancholy disconcerts us and allows us to cut against dominant narratives and identities Winters identifies a black literary and aesthetic tradition in the work of intellectuals writers and artists such as W E B Du Bois Ralph Ellison Toni Morrison and Charles Burnett that often underscores melancholy remembrance loss and tragedy in ways that gesture toward such a conception of hope Winters also draws on Walter Benjamin and Theodor Adorno to highlight how remembering and mourning the uncomfortable dimensions of American social life can provide alternate sources for hope and imagination that might lead to building a better world Learning Directory ,1972 The Publishers' Trade List Annual ,1975 American Jewish Archives ,1975
