Property Theft and Cyberwarfare Ruth Taplin, 2020-11-12 The desire to steal the intellectual property (IP) of others be they creative individuals or company teams working in patent pools to create new innovations remains the same. Political methods have become more sophisticated in terms of devaluing the output of creative humans by creating open source access which can be taken freely by all and sundry. What has changed is the new cyber based technology that allows increased theft of IP. Likewise, warfare for geo political imperatives is not new but sophisticated cyber based methods that can actually carry out infrastructural damage through cyberspace are new and are accordingly termed cyberwarfare. How cyber strategies are used in IP theft and cyberwarfare in relation to new complex digital technology such as the Internet of Things (IoT) is explored in relation to particular essential sectors in the economy marine, smart energy, power grids and insurance. It studies policy considerations that can assist African policymakers in facilitating a balanced regulatory approach that does not stifle financial innovation. The growth of financial technology in Africa presents huge opportunities for inclusive growth on the African continent. Digital finance which sits at the heart of financial technology could be key to placing Africa back on the economic recovery trajectory after the COVID 19 crisis, facilitating its speed in achieving the UNSDG 2030 goals and setting the continent on course to meet its African Union Agenda 2063. This book examines mobile financial services, crowdfunding, crypto assets, digital currencies, including central bank digital currencies, decentralised finance and open banking and finance all from an African perspective. Explores the status of regulation in these areas in Africa highlighting areas where regulation is lacking, inadequate and in need of reform. Highlights pragmatic approaches to regulation such as including the adoption of regulatory sandboxes and regulatory technology and discusses requirements for the adoption of supervisory technology in Africa. Scrutinises the implications of developments in the FinTech space in Africa for international security and economic and financial stability. Placing Africa in the global context the book argues for an international effort to understand the global dimensions of FinTech developments so that robust and applicable global regulatory frameworks can be applied in developing parts of the
