The Death Penalty Amnesty International Report

Sebastian Brünink

The Death Penalty Amnesty International Report:

The Death Penalty Amnesty International, 1979 Capital Punishment C. Cliff, 2003 The issue of capital punishment is a continually debated issue because it calls into question the values and direction of society How is a civilisation supposed to handle lawbreakers Are some crimes so heinous and some people so dangerous that the death penalty is the only appropriate response The United States Constitution prohibits cruel and unusual punishment but opinions on whether that includes capital punishment are vehement on both sides Many states have some form of death penalty and public opinion seems to indicate support of it in principle However many firestorms have erupted recently over the application of the penalty including the topics of its use on minors and those with mental disabilities There are also questions raised about how much of a factor race plays in a capital sentence Internationally several countries have foresworn the death penalty with certain countries in Europe and the Americas refusing to extradite criminal suspects including suspected terrorists to the US if capital punishment is a possible sentence With such politically flammable and ethically challenging issues hanging over it capital punishment is a vitally important issue to understand To help facilitate that study this book assembles a carefully selected and substantial listing of literature focussing on the death penalty Anyone researching this area of criminal justice will find this book an important tool as it offers easy access to the most relevant works about capital punishment Following the bibliography further access is provided with author title and subject indexes A Comparative Analysis of Capital Punishment Rita James Simon, Dagny A. Blaskovich, 2007-01-01 A Comparative Analysis of Capital Punishment provides a concise and detailed history of the death penalty Incorporating and synthesizing public opinion data and empirical studies Simon and Blaskovich's work compares across societies the types of offenses punishable by death the level of public support for the death penalty the forms the penalty takes and the categories of persons exempt from punishment The Death Penalty Roger Hood, Carolyn Hoyle, 2015 The fifth edition of this highly praised study charts and explains the progress that continues to be made towards the goal of worldwide abolition of the death penalty The majority of nations have now abolished the death penalty and the number of executions has dropped in almost all countries where abolition has not yet taken place Emphasizing the impact of international human rights principles and evidence of abuse the authors examine how this has fueled challenges to the death penalty and they analyze and appraise the likely obstacles political and cultural to further abolition They discuss the cruel realities of the death penalty and the failure of international standards always to ensure fair trials and to avoid arbitrariness discrimination and conviction of the innocent all violations of the right to life They provide further evidence of the lack of a general deterrent effect shed new light on the influence and limits of public opinion and argue that substituting for the death penalty life imprisonment without parole raises many similar human rights concerns This edition provides a strong intellectual and evidential basis for regarding capital punishment as undeniably cruel inhuman and degrading Widely relied upon and fully updated to reflect the current state of affairs worldwide this is an invaluable resource for all those who study the death penalty and work towards its removal as an international goal Amnesty International Report, 1985 Amnesty International,1985 The Globalization of Childhood Robyn Linde,2016-07-07 How does an idea that forms in the minds of a few activists in one part of the world become a global norm that nearly all states obey How do human rights ideas spread In this book Robyn Linde tracks the diffusion of a single human rights norm the abolition of the death penalty for child offenders under the age of 18 The norm against the penalty diffused internationally through law specifically criminal law addressing child offenders usually those convicted of murder or rape Through detailed case studies and a qualitative comparative approach to national law and practice Linde argues that children played an important though little known role in the process of state consolidation and the building of international order This occurred through the promotion of children as international rights holders and was the outcome of almost two centuries of activism Through an innovative synthesis of prevailing theories of power and socialization Linde shows that the growth of state control over children was part of a larger political process by which the liberal state both paternal and democratic became the only model of acceptable and legitimate statehood and through which newly minted international institutions would find purpose The book offers insight into the origins spread and adoption of human rights norms and law by elucidating the roles and contributions of principled actors and norm entrepreneurs at different stages of diffusion and by identifying a previously unexplored pattern of change whereby resistant states were brought into compliance with the now global norm against the child death penalty From the institutions and legacy of colonialism to the development and promotion of the global child a collection of related still changing norms of child welfare and protection Linde demonstrates how a specifically Western conception of childhood and ideas about children shaped the current international system The Death Penalty Report Amnesty International,1978 Section discusses the death penalty and executions in Malawi The International Sourcebook on Capital Punishment Center for Capital Punishment Studies, London,1997 An indispensable reference and research tool for capital punishment scholars Death Penalty Report Summary ,1989 New York University Journal of International Law & Politics New York University. International Law Society,1980 The Death Penalty ,1989 Capital Punishment and Implementation of the Safeguards Guaranteeing Protection of the Rights of Those Facing the Death Penalty ,2005 The Yale Journal of World Public Order ,1980 Voices of the Death Penalty Debate Russell G. Murphy,2010 Through the statements of witnesses who testified at historic hearings in New York between December 2004 and February 2005 the book seeks to educate a national and international citizenry about capital punishment presenting the essential facts relating to the death penalty and the major categories of debate over capital punishment worldwide Introd China Now ,1988 Sri Lanka, State of Human Rights ,2005 Of Human Rights ,1984 The Role of Social Science in Law Elizabeth Mertz,2008 The legal system relies on social science for answers to many tough questions Social scientists study issues relevant to law But are law and social science talking past one another This collection of important articles and essays explores the difficult process of translation between these two fields drawing on three different scholarly perspectives the insider approach which views social science as a tool that lawyers can use for legal ends the outsider approach of the law and society or sociology of law movement and the study of the language of law Each section of the volume combines theoretical articles with specific empirical examples ranging from the death penalty through anti discrimination law to family violence Constitutional Rights Journal ,1997 National Union Catalog , Includes entries for maps and atlases
