Theory-Fiction and Other Genres Simon O'Sullivan,2024-11-27 This book looks at three different kinds of writing practice theory fiction autofiction autotheory and art writing that are increasingly prevalent as genres or hybrid genres in the arts and critical humanities The chapters in the book operate as a critical survey of these new forms of writing many examples are listed whilst at the same time they each work towards some provisional definitions Some key precursors to these new genres are also identified The book explores what these new kinds of writing do What is particular to them or what do they add to those already existing styles and genres and especially the academic essay and article Key here is that each form of writing works in a performative manner or as a device that enables a shift in perspective A case is made for their urgency in relation to contemporary issues and concerns and for their importance in terms of being both from and for more marginalised communities The book concludes with a discussion of machine writing and especially our collaboration with artificial intelligence language models The student's text-book of the science of music John Taylor,1876 Books X-XI

Kenelm Henry Digby,1894 Collective Creativity Gerhard Fischer,Florian Vassen,2011 Collective Creativity combines complex and ambivalent concepts While creativity is currently experiencing an inflationary boom in popularity the term collective appeared until recently rather controversial due to its ideological implications in twentieth century politics In a world defined by global cultural practice the notion of collectivity has gained new relevance This publication discusses a number of concepts of creativity and shows that in opposition to the traditional ideal of the individual as creative genius cultural theorists today emphasize the collaborative nature of creativity they show that creativity makes alterity discontinuity and difference attractive Not the Romantic Originalgenie but rather the agents of the creative economy appear as the new avant garde of aesthetic innovation teams groups and collectives in business and science in art and digital media who work together in networking clusters to develop innovative products and processes In this book scholars in the social sciences and in cultural and media studies in literature theatre and visual arts present for the first time a comprehensive inter and transdisciplinary account of collective creativity in its multifaceted applications They investigate the intersections of artistic scientific and cultural practice where the individual and the collective merge come together or confront each other
