The Asiatic Wild Horse Erna Mohr, 1971 The Asiatic Wild Horse Erna Mohr, 1971 Przewalski's Horse Lee Boyd, Katherine A. Houpt, 1994-01-01 Przewalski's horse the only true horse never to have been domesticated is believed to be extinct in the wild Experts from around the world come together in this book and offer a complete synthesis of knowledge about the species to date Topics included are taxonomy morphology former geographic distribution history in captivity the studbook genetics population biology nutrition veterinary care reproduction and behavior Implications for management are also included and are especially relevant in light of recent plans to attempt the reintroduction of Przewalski's horses into the wild This book provides a valuable reference to those charged with managing this endangered species in captivity and implementing its reintroduction Wild Horses Elwyn Hartley Edwards, 1995 Provides photographs and information about the origins and development of some of the wild horse species that live in various places throughout the world and discusses conservation efforts The History and Romance of the Horse Arthur Vernon, 2013-12-16 A sweeping panorama of horse related history and lore that will appeal to readers of all ages this illustrated book profiles race horses working and war horses various breeds and much more The Asiatic Wild Horse Erna Mohr, 1970 Equids--zebras, Asses, and Horses Patricia Des Roses Moehlman, IUCN/SSC Equid Specialist Group, 2002 The new Equid Action Plan provides current knowledge on the biology ecology and conservation status of wild zebras asses and horses It specifies what information is lacking and prioritizes needed conservation actions The Action Plan also provides chapters on equid taxonomy genetics reproductive biology and population dynamics These chapters highlight unsolved issues of taxonomy and genetics They also provide information and insight into the special demographic and genetic challenges of managing small populations The chapter on disease provides a review of documented equine disease and epidemiology and focuses on priorities for equid conservation health The final chapter deals with the importance of developing an assessment methodology that explicitly considers the role of equids in ecosystems and the ecological processes that are necessary for ecosystem viability The approach of combining ecological field studies and ecosystem modeling should prove useful for the scientific management and conservation of wild equids worldwide These chapters provide research and conservation practitioners with new information and paradigms Using Science to Improve the BLM Wild Horse and Burro Program National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Agriculture and Natural Resources, Committee to Review the Bureau of Land Management Wild Horse and Burro Management Program, 2013-09-04 Using Science to Improve the BLM Wild Horse and Burro Program A Way Forward reviews the science that underpins the Bureau of Land Management's oversight of free ranging horses and burros on federal public lands in the western United States concluding that constructive changes could be implemented The Wild Horse and Burro Program has not used scientifically rigorous methods to estimate the population sizes of horses and burros to model the effects of management actions on the animals or to assess the availability and use of forage on rangelands Evidence suggests that horse populations are growing by 15 to 20 percent each year a level that is unsustainable for maintaining healthy horse populations as well as healthy ecosystems Promising fertility control methods are available to help limit this population growth however In addition science based methods exist for improving population estimates predicting the effects of management practices in order to maintain genetically diverse healthy populations and estimating the productivity of rangelands Greater transparency in how science based methods are used to inform management decisions may help increase public confidence in the Wild Horse and Burro Program
