Wallace-Hadrill, 1982      The Barbarian West, A.D. 400-1000 J M Wallace-Hadrill, 2020-04-23 In the fourth century the Roman Empire was under threat The Barbarians were becoming a powerful force in Europe and the Huns the most savage of these tribesmen were sweeping south towards the imperial frontiers At the same time the Empire faced growing internal social and economic problems plague and war had diminished the agricultural population and productivity was falling the army was under increasing strain in defending the extensive boundaries Christianity too continued to prove an unsettling influence accepted and established in Constantinople but not in Rome In this perceptive and stimulating book Professor Wallace Hadrill traces the development of Western Europe from the dissolution of the late Roman Empire to the emergence in the tenth century of the individual states of medieval Europe Printed into the comparatively few pages at his disposal Mr Wallace Hadrill has contrived to pack a surprising amount of stimulating discussion covering many of the problems which have exercised historians during the present century Attention may be called in particular to his judicious summing up of the contrasting theories of the extent of Mediterranean trade after the fall of the empire in the west and his reminder of the pitfalls both in the economic and in other fields presented by the defective nature of our sources and the state in which they have been preserved the book reads smoothly and interest is sustained even when the untidy tenth century so difficult to summarize is reached The author is to be congratulated on a suggestive and valuable essay on a period of European history which has possibly received less attention than it deserves from the present generation of English students H ST L B MOSS The English Historical Review Impresses by its sober and patient probing and testing of the mortal remains of these six centuries Eastern Churches Quarterly      The Barbarian West, 400-1000, by J.M. John Michael Wallace-Hadrill, 1962      Mercenaries and Paid Men John France, 2008-03-31 Mercenaries have always had a poor press. Theirs is one of the world's oldest professions but the very word has profoundly negative connotations of infidelity and ruthlessness. But were they so different from soldiers? Why in any case were they so omnipresent in the warfare of the medieval and early modern period? What kind of men became mercenaries and where did they come from? These are some of the questions which the essays in this volume address. Contributors are Richard Abels, Bernard Bachrach, David Bachrach, Adrian Bell, Charles Bowlus, David Crouch, Guido Dall'Oro, Kelly Devries, Sven Ekdahl, John Hosler, John Law, Alan Murray, Stephen Morillo, Laura Napran, Eljas Oksanen, Carlos Andrez Gonzalez Paz, Ciaran O'Reilly, Muriosa Prendergast, Nicolas Prouteau, John Pryor, Ifor Rowlands, Spencer Smith.

The Undivided Past David Cannadine, 2013-03-19 An impassioned controversial plea for us to recognise the importance of writing history from world famous historian David Cannadine. David Cannadine is one of Britain's most distinguished historians and this is his masterpiece. The Undivided Past is an agonised attempt to understand how so much of the writing of history has been driven by a fatal desire to dramatize differences to create an us versus them. Great works of history have so often had at their heart a wish to sift people in ways that have been profoundly damaging and provided the intellectual backing and justification for terrible political decisions. Again and again categories have been found whether religion, nation, class, gender, race or civilization that have sought to explain world events by fabricating some malevolent or helpless other. This book is above all an appeal to common humanity. We seem doomed always to fall, most recently in the wake of 9/11 into the us versus them trap but there is no reason why the history we read and write should not be much better than this and describe what we all have in common rather than what divides us. About the author: Sir David Cannadine is Chair of the National Portrait Gallery, Dodge Professor of History at Princeton University and General Editor of the Penguin History of Europe and Penguin History of Britain. He is a Fellow of the British Academy and the Chair of the Blue Plaques Committee. His major books include The Rise and Fall of the British Aristocracy, Ornamentalism and Mellon A Life. He is currently writing the Penguin History of Victorian Britain. He has previously taught at Cambridge, Columbia and London universities.

The Origins of Medieval Architecture Charles B. McClendon, 2005-01-01 This book is the first devoted to the important innovations in architecture that took place in western Europe between the death of emperor Justinian in A.D. 565 and the tenth century. During this period of transition from Late Antiquity to the Middle Ages the Early Christian basilica was transformed in both form and function. Charles B. McClendon draws on rich documentary evidence and archaeological data to show that the buildings of these three centuries studied in isolation but rarely together set substantial precedents for the future of medieval architecture. He looks at buildings of the so-called Dark Ages, monuments that reflected a new assimilation of seemingly antithetical barbarian and classical attitudes toward architecture and its decoration and at the grand and innovative architecture of the Carolingian Empire. The great Romanesque and Gothic churches of subsequent centuries owe far more to the architectural achievements of the Early

Middle Ages than has generally been recognized the author argues Journal of Medieval Military History Clifford J. Rogers, Kelly DeVries, John France, 2007-10-18 Latest volume of original articles on all aspects of warfare in the middle ages The broad topic of medieval warfare is here explored across the full chronological range of the Middle Ages using a wide variety of approaches including literary prosopographical technological and narrative based analysis A key feature of the journal is its commitment to fostering debate on the most significant issues in medieval military history that tradition is continued here with Bernard Bachrach's argument against the idea that early medieval military structures and practices were sharply different from Late Antique ones Individual battles the Hattin campaign of 1187 and Byzantine war against Bulgaria in 1254-1256 are the focus of two other chapters an article by Richard Kaeuper based on his De Re Militari special lecture at the International Congress of Medieval Studies emphasizes the value of chansons de geste and other romance material for understanding the mentality of the martial lay aristocracy of medieval Christendom and there are further articles on the factors that motivated gentlemen to fight in both open warfare and individual combat Weapons of warfare are not neglected with chapters casting light on the development of the crossbow and the trebuchet CONTRIBUTORS BERNARD S BACHRACH MICHAEL EHRLICH MICHAEL BASISTA NICHOLAS S KANELLOPOULOS JOANNE K LEKEA RICHARD W KAEUPER MARK DUPUY MALCOLM MERCER STEVEN C HUGHES Inleiding tot de Europese rechtsgeschiedenis Randall Lesaffer, 2008 Overzicht van de historische ontwikkeling van de Europees continentale rechtstraditie Mustard Seeds in the Public Square Sotiris Mitralaxis, 2017-04-01 This volume seeks to explore the intersection of theology philosophy and the public sphere not by referring the social and political to ethics and deontology as is often the case but rather to ontology itself to the very nature of beings The meaning of history and historicity is most pertinent to this enquiry and is approached here both from the perspective of social reality and from the perspective of ontology Joining together contributions focusing on theory of the public sphere and metaphysics chapters explore subjects as diverse as the political implications of the Incarnation the paradox between ontology and history politically left and right appropriations of Christianity the fecundity of Maximus the Confessor's insights for a contemporary political philosophy modern Orthodox political theology focusing on Christos Yannaras and numerous thematic areas that together form the mosaic of the enquiry in question The Worlds of Medieval Europe Clifford R. Backman, 2009 Deftly written and beautifully illustrated The Worlds of Medieval Europe Second Edition presents a distinctive and nuanced portrayal of a western world that was sharply divided between its northern and southern aspects By integrating the histories of the Islamic and Byzantine worlds into the main narrative author Clifford R Backman offers an insightful detailed and often witty look at the continuum of interaction social cultural intellectual and commercial that existed among all three societies Filled with relevant primary documents this compelling volume surpasses traditional textbook representations of the Middle Ages by balancing the conventional focus on political affairs especially those of northern Europe with equally detailed attention to medieval society as it developed in the Mediterranean In addition Backman describes the ways in which the medieval Latin West attempted to understand the unified and rational structure of the human cosmos which they believed existed beneath the observable diversity and disorder of the world This effort to re create a human ordering of unity through diversity provides an essential key to understanding medieval Europe and the ways in which it regarded and reacted to the worlds around it Thoroughly updated and redesigned the second edition features an inviting and accessible layout and integrates captivating new illustrations nearly twice as many as in the previous edition to stimulate students engagement with the material Moreover it offers a sophisticated analysis of gender along with an intriguing examination of the tumultuous relationship between the Mediterranean and Islam An invaluable resource for both students and instructors The Worlds of Medieval Europe Second Edition is ideal for undergraduate courses in medieval history Western civilization the history of Christianity and Muslim Christian relations It also serves as an excellent supplement on the history of a specific country in the medieval period the history of medieval art or the history of the European economy Medieval History & Civilization Daniel D.
