Moving Pictures/Stopping Places David B. Clarke, Valerie Crawford Pfannhauser, Marcus A. Doel, 2009-05-16 Mobility has long been a defining feature of modern societies yet remarkably little attention has been paid to the various stopping places _hotels motels and the like_ that this mobility presupposes If the paradoxical qualities of fixed places dedicated to facilitating movement have been overlooked by a variety of commentators film makers have shown remarkable prescience and consistency in engaging with these still points around which the world is made to turn Hotels and motels play a central role in a multitude of films ranging across an immensely wide variety of genres eras and national cinemas Whereas previous film theorists have focused on the movement implied by road movies and similar genres the outstanding contributions to this volume extend the recent engagement with space and place in film studies providing a series of fascinating explorations of the cultural significance of stopping places both on screen and off Ranging from the mythical elegance of the Grand Hotel through the uncanny spaces of the Bates motel to Korean love motels the wealth of insights from a variety of theoretical perspectives that this volume delivers is set to change our understanding of the role played by stopping places in an increasingly fluid world

Culture Jane Fenoulhet, Lesley Gilbert, Ulrich Tiedau, 2016-11-07 This edited collection explores the ways in which our understanding of the past in Dutch history and culture can be rethought to consider not only how it forms part of the present but how it can relate also to the future Divided into three parts The Uses of Myth and History The Past as Illumination of Cultural Context and Historiography in Focus this book seeks to demonstrate the importance of the past by investigating the transmission of culture and its transformations It reflects on the history of historiography and looks critically at the products of the historiographic process such as Dutch and Afrikaans literary history The chapters cover a range of disciplines and approaches some authors offer a broad view of a particular period such as Jonathan Israel's contribution on myth and history in the ideological politics of the Dutch Golden Age while others zoom in on specific genres texts or historical moments such as Benjamin Schmidt's study of the doolhof a word that today means labyrinth but once described a 17th century educational amusement park This volume enlightening and home to multiple paths of enquiry leading in different directions is an excellent example of what a past present doolhof might look like abstract This paper will give a general overview of the venture that is machine translation with particular focus on linguistic aspects It will display history of MT and will deal with some of the major issues in the realisation of MT like the difficulty of translating prepositions or integrating semantics as well as the importance of real world knowledge To illustrate these difficulties with examples on a basic level a practice test with a moderately complex translation engine provided by Google has been carried out and will be explained Finally I am going to introduce three of the largest and most powerful translation machines currently in use I will also give a brief overview of methods of MT The aim of this paper is to show that the realisation of the primal idea of machine translation in its original sense which was to perform translation without human intervention except during the construction phase of the system is still markedly far away at present and machines are still unlikely to take over the jobs of human translators
