Learning by Listening in Relation to Aptitude, Reading, and Rate-controlled Speech Thomas G. Sticht, 1971 A series of experiments explored the feasibility of substituting listening for reading requirements in Army training and jobs with special reference to marginally literate AFQT Mental Category IV men. Results of these experiments and related earlier research are summarized. Major findings indicate that high and low aptitude men may learn certain materials as well by listening as by reading. Some poorer readers prefer to learn by listening rather than by reading. Characteristics of the recorded message that were found to affect listening comprehension include difficulty level of message, linguistic features of speech and rate of speech. Extensive studies of the use of time compressed and expanded recordings are described.

Psychological Assessment in the Schools James C. Impara, Linda L.

Murphy, 1994 A new introduction from the Buros Institute. The Buros Desk Reference Series is composed of individual volumes containing reviews of test instruments commonly used in particular areas. The first edition in this series brings together reviews of over one hundred tests most frequently used by school psychologists. Entries include reviews taken from the Mental Measurements Yearbook along with descriptions of population, purpose, scoring, publisher, etc. taken from Tests in Print IV. The book is organized by category e.g. Intelligence, Personality, Behavior Ratings and also includes a title index, score index and publishers directory. The convenient size and easy to locate information in this publication makes it an ideal desktop companion.
