Excerpt: There could be but one answer to the suggestion of Mr Coventry Patmore that his Angel in the House might usefully have a place in this National Library. The suggestion was made with the belief that wide and cheap diffusion would not take from the value of a copyright library edition while the best use of writing is fulfilled by the spreading of verse dedicated to the sacred love of home. The two parts of the Poem appeared in 1854 and 1856 were afterwards elaborately revised and have since obtained a permanent place among the Home Books of the English People. The Home Angel is a narrative poem by Coventry Patmore first published in 1854 and expanded until 1862. Although largely ignored since its publication, it became very popular in the United States during the second half of the 19th century and later in Britain, and its influence continued well into the 20th century as it became part of many English Literature courses once adopted by WW Norton Company in Norton's anthology of English Literature. The poem was an idealized account of the courtship of his first wife, Emily Augusta Andrews (1824-1862) whom he married in 1847 and is believed to be the perfect wife of Patmore. According to Carol Christ, it is not a very good poem; however, it is of great cultural importance not only for its definition of the sexual ideal but also for the clarity with which it represents the masculine concerns that motivate fascination with that ideal. The poem is divided into two main parts but was originally published in four installments. The first was published with the main title in
