The Architectural Outsiders:

The Architectural Outsiders Roderick Brown, 1985      The Architectural Outsiders, 1985      Design by Competition Jack L. Nasar, 1999-02-28 What meanings do buildings and places convey to the people who use and visit them Too often design competitions and signature architecture result in costly eyesores that do not work How can sponsors and clients get more meaningful results In answer to these questions Dr Nasar supported by riveting studies of competitions and Peter Eisenman's competition winning design for the Wexner Center at the Ohio State University suggests the use of pre jury evaluation PJE He shows the potential value of this approach as well as visual quality programming for many kinds of environmental design for which the client wants to convey certain desirable meanings The studies from those specific to the Wexner Center to those covering the scope of history point to an alternative method for shaping the visual form of buildings places and cities      London Anthony Sutcliffe, Professor Anthony Sutcliffe, 2006-01-01 London is one of the world's greatest cities and its architecture is a unique heritage The Tower of London is an urban castle unique in Europe St Paul's is one of the world's greatest domed cathedrals and the squares and crescents of the West End inspired Haussmann's Paris In London it is the variety of the streets buildings and parks that strikes the visitor No king or government has ever set its mark here Private ownership has shaped the city and architects have served a wide variety of clients London's Classical era produced an elegant townscape between 1600 and 1830 but medieval Tudor and Victorian London were a potpourri of buildings large and small each making its own design statement In London An Architectural History Anthony Sutcliffe takes the reader through two thousand years of architecture from the sublime to the mundane With over 300 color illustrations the book is intended for the general reader and especially those visiting London for the first time      Railway Palaces of Portland, Oregon: The Architectural Legacy of Henry Villard Alexander Benjamin Craghead, 2016 In 1883 railroad financier Henry Villard brought Portland and the Pacific Northwest their first transcontinental railroad Earning a reputation for boldness on Wall Street the war correspondent turned entrepreneur set out to establish Portland as a burgeoning metropolis To realize his vision he hired architects McKim Mead White to design a massive passenger station and a first class hotel Despite financial panics lost fortunes and stalled construction the Portland Hotel opened in 1890 and remained the social heart of the city for sixty years While the original station was never built Villard returned as a pivotal benefactor of Union Station saving its iconic clock tower in the process Author Alexander Benjamin Craghead tells the story of this Gilded Age patron and the architecture that helped shape the city's identity      The Architect, 1874      Architects and Intellectual Culture in Post-Restoration England Matthew Walker, 2017-10-20 Architects Builders and Intellectual Culture in Restoration England charts the moment when well educated well resourced English intellectuals first became interested in classical architecture in substantial numbers This occurred after the Restoration of the Monarchy in 1660 and involved people such as John Evelyn Robert Hooke Sir Christopher Wren and Roger North Matthew Walker explores how these figures treated architecture as a subject of intellectual enquiry either as writers as designers of buildings or as both In four substantial chapters it looks at how the architect was defined as a major intellectual figure how architects acquired material that allowed them to define themselves as intellectually competent architects how intellectual writers in the period handled knowledge of ancient architecture in their writing and how the design process in architecture was conceived of in theoretical writing at the time In all Walker shows that the key to understanding English architectural culture at the time is to understand how architecture was handled as knowledge and how architects were conceived of as collectors and producers of such knowledge He also makes the claim that architecture was treated as an extremely serious and important area of intellectual enquiry the result of which was that by the turn of the eighteenth century architects and architectural writers could count themselves amongst England's intellectual and cultural elite     Directory of British Architects, 1834-1914 Antonia Brodie, British Architectural Library, Royal Institute of British Architects, 2001-12-20 A comprehensive biographical directory of some 11 000 British architects who worked between 1834 and 1914     History of Scottish Architecture Miles Glendinning, 2019-07-30 At last here is a single volume authoritative history of Scottish architecture This compact yet comprehensive account combines factual description of the vast and fertile range of visual forms and key architects in each period with a wide ranging analysis of their social ideological and historical context As Scotland has often been closely involved with new trends in western architecture this book highlights the interaction of Scottish developments with broader European and international movements From the beginnings of the Renaissance in the 15th century right up to the 1990s this much needed survey covers the entire post medieval story in one volume     Summerson and Hitchcock Frank E. Salmon, 2006 Publisher description     The British Architect ,1899     The Building news and engineering journal ,1887     The Architectural Forum ,1931     John Talman Cinzia Maria Sicca, 2008 This work is a full length study of John Talman the first director of the Society of Antiquaries and one of the most influential collectors of drawings in early 18th century Britain     Journal of the Royal Institute of British Architects ,1896     Royal Academy Antics Harry Furniss, 1890     Building on Ruins Frank E. Salmon, 2000 Charles Barry's victory in the competition to design the new Houses of Parliament in 1836 has been widely regarded as the moment in English architecture when the influence of Greece gave way to Victorian Gothic In this beautifully illustrated book Frank Salmon redirects attention to the importance of classical archaeology in the education of British architects and to major classically inspired buildings in Birmingham Cambridge Liverpool and the City of London also commissioned in this period     The Spectator ,1985-07 A weekly review of politics literature theology and art     Carpentry and Building ,1890     The Architect and Contract Reporter ,1896
