Pike,2012-07-05 Chemicals from Biomass Integrating Bioprocesses into Chemical Production Complexes for Sustainable Development helps engineers optimize the development of new chemical and polymer plants that use renewable resources to replace the output of goods and services from existing plants It also discusses the conversion of those existing plants into facilities that are based on renewable resources that may require nonrenewable resource supplements Relying on extensive reviews of biomass as feedstock and the production of chemicals from biomass this book identifies and illustrates the design of new chemical processes bioprocesses that use renewable feedstock biomass as raw materials The authors show how these new bioprocesses can be integrated into the existing plant in a chemical production complex to obtain the best combination of energy efficient and environmentally acceptable facilities This presented methodology is an essential component of sustainable development and these steps are essential to achieving a sustainable chemical industry The authors evaluate potential bioprocesses based on a conceptual design of biomass based chemical production and they use Aspen HYSYS and Aspen ICARUS to perform simulations and economic evaluations of these processes The book outlines detailed process designs created for seven bioprocesses that use biomass and carbon dioxide as feedstock to produce a range of chemicals and monomers These include fermentation transesterification anaerobic digestion gasification and algae oil production These process designs and associated simulation codes can be downloaded for modification as needed The methodology presented in this book can be used to evaluate energy efficiency cost sustainability and environmental acceptability of plants and new products Based on the results of that analysis
