

Principles of Architecture Design

- Current thinking on architecture assumes :
 - your design will evolve over time
 - you cannot know everything up front in order to fully architect your system
- In reality, your design will generally need to evolve during the implementation stages of the application as you learn more, and as you test the design against real world requirements (ECR process - change requirements to match implementation)
- Create your architecture with this evolution in mind so that it will be able to adapt to requirements that are not fully known at the start of the design process
- Consider the following questions as you create an architectural design*:
 - What are the foundational parts of the architecture that represent the greatest risk if you get them wrong?
 - What are the parts of the architecture that are most likely to change, or whose design you can delay until later with little impact?
 - What are your key assumptions, and how will you test them?
 - What conditions may require you to refactor the design?
