Skin Dorothy Allison, 1994 A collection of essays autobiographical narratives and performance pieces Skin Dorothy Allison, 2013-05-28 A collection of critical essays from award winning author Dorothy Allison about identity gender politics and queer theory now with a new preface Lambda Award and American Library Association s Stonewall Book Award winning author Dorothy Allison is known for her bold and insightful writing on issues of class and sexuality In Skin she approaches these topics through twenty three impassioned essays that explore her identity from her childhood in a poor family in South Carolina to her adult life as a lesbian in the suburbs of New York and her sexuality In Gun Crazy Allison delves into what guns meant to the men and women around her when she was growing up She gives insight into the importance of speaking professionally about sexuality in Talking to Straight People and articulates the danger women feel about revealing their personal desires even within feminist communities in Public Silence Private Terror Allison is fearless in her discussion of many social and political taboos Compelling and raw Skin is an honest and intimate work perfect for Dorothy Allison fans and new readers alike Father-Daughter Incest in Twentieth-Century American Literature Christine Grogan, 2016-10-03 The first major study to challenge the narrow definition of post traumatic stress disorder PTSD by rereading six American literary texts this book argues for the importance of literature in representing not just circumscribed singular traumatic events as Cathy Caruth argued in the late nineties but for giving voice to chronic and cumulative or complex traumatic experiences This interdisciplinary study traces the development of father daughter incest narratives published in the last hundred years from male authored fiction to female authored memoir bringing new readings to Fitzgerald s Tender Is the Night Ellison s Invisible Man and the Dylan Farrow Woody Allen case This study builds on the work of those ushering in a second wave of trauma theory which has argued that the difficulty of speaking about a traumatic experience is not necessarily caused by neurobiological changes that prevent victims from recalling details Rather it s from social and political repercussions In other words they argue that many who experience trauma aren t unable to deliver accounts they fear the results There is a significant gender component to trauma whose implications along with those of race and class have largely gone unexamined in the first wave of trauma theory Exploring two additional questions about articulating trauma this book asks what happens when the voice of trauma is crying out from what Toni Morrison has called the most delicate most vulnerable member of society a female child and second what happens when the trauma is not just a time limit event but chronic and cumulative experiences Some traumatic experiences namely father daughter incest are culturally reduced to the untellable and yet accounts of paternal incest are readily available in American literature This book is written in part as a response to the psychological community which failed to include complex PTSD in the latest edition of the DSM DSM 5 denying victims many of whom are father daughter incest survivors the validation and recognition they deserve and leaving many misdiagnosed and thereby mistreated Southern Selves James Watkins, 2007-12-18 The memoirist seek to capture not just a self but an entire world and in this marvelous anthology thirty one of the South's finest writers like Kaye Gibbons and Reynolds Price Eudora Welty and Harry Crews Richard Wright and Dorothy Allison make their intensely personal contributions to a vibrant collective picture of southern life In the hands of these superb artists the South's rich tradition of storytelling is brilliantly revealed Whether slave or master intellectual or redneck each voice in this moving and unforgettable collection is proof that southern literature richly deserves its reputation for irreverent humor exquisite language a feeling for place and an undying often heartbreaking sense of the past
