Striding Both Worlds Melissa Kennedy, 2011-01-01 Striding Both Worlds illuminates European influences in the fiction of Witi Ihimaera. Aotearoa New Zealand's foremost Māori writer in order to question the common interpretation of Māori writing as displaying a distinctive Māori world view and literary style. Far from being discrete endogenous units, all cultures and literatures arise out of constant interaction, engagement, and even friction. Thus Māori culture since the 1970s has been shaped by a long history of interaction with colonial British Pakeha and other postcolonial and indigenous cultures. Māori sovereignty and renaissance movements have harnessed the structures of European modernity, nation building, and more recently Western global capitalism, transculturation, and diaspora contexts, which contest New Zealand bicultural identity, encouraging Māori to express their difference and self-sufficiency. Ihimaera's fiction has been largely viewed as embodying the specific values of Māori renaissance and biculturalism. However, Ihimaera in his techniques, modes, and themes is indebted to a wider range of literary influences than national literary critique accounts for. In taking an international literary perspective, this book draws critical attention to little-known or disregarded aspects such as Ihimaera's love of opera, the extravagance of his baroque lyricism, his exploration of fantasy, and his increasing interest in taking Māori into the global arena. In revealing a broad range of cultural and aesthetic influences and interreferences commonly seen as irrelevant to contemporary Māori literature, Striding Both Worlds argues for a hitherto frequently overlooked and undervalued depth and complexity to Ihimaera's imaginary. The present study argues that an emphasis on difference tends to lose sight of fiction's capacity to appreciate originality and individuality in the polyphony of its very form and function. In effect, literary negotiation of Māori sovereign space takes place in its forms rather than in its content; the uniqueness of Māori literature is found in the way it uses the common tools of literary fiction, including language, imagery, the text's relationship to reality, and the function of characterization. By interpreting aspects of Ihimaera's oeuvre for what they share with other literatures in English, Striding Both Worlds aims to present an additional complementary approach to Māori New Zealand and postcolonial literary analysis. Classics in Stereoselective Synthesis Erick M. Carreira, Lisbet Kvaerno, 2009-02-09 This book provides a noteworthy compilation of the groundbreaking methods of stereoselective synthesis belonging to the repertoire of every modern practitioner of synthetic organic chemistry The general principles underlying these processes are highlighted as they form the basis for the rapid and continuing developments in the field The work also features illustrative examples of drug and natural product syntheses resulting in a rich source of stimulating ideas for the efficient use of asymmetric reactions in the construction of stereochemically complex structures From the contents Macrocyclic stereocontrol Carbonyl addition reactions alpha Functionalization of enolates Aldol and allylation reactions Chiral acetals Alkene hydroboration reduction and oxidation Additions to C N bonds and synthesis of amino acids Conjugate additions Chiral carbanions Metal catalyzed allylations Cyclopropanations and CH insertion reactions Sigmatropic rearrangements Diels Alder and hetero Diels Alder reactions 3 2 and 2 2 cycloaddition reactions
