Richards, 2001-03-12 1 The origins of language curriculum development 2 From syllabus design to curriculum development 3 Needs analysis 4 Situation analysis 5 Planning goals and learning outcomes 6 Course planning and syllabus design 7 Providing for effective teaching 8 The role and design of instructional materials 9 Approaches to evaluation Reflections on Task-Based Language Teaching Rod Ellis, 2018-06-18 Task based language teaching is now a well established pedagogic approach but problematic issues remain such as whether it is appropriate for all learners and in all instructional contexts This book draws on the author s experience of working with teachers together with his knowledge of relevant research and theory to examine the key issues It proposes flexible ways in which tasks can be designed and implemented in the language classroom to address the problems that teachers often face with task based language teaching It will appeal to researchers and teachers who are interested in task based language teaching and the practical and theoretical issues involved It will also be of interest to students and researchers working in the areas of applied linguistics TESOL and second language acquisition Language and Discrimination Celia Roberts, 2014-09-25 Language and Discrimination provides a unique and authoritative study of the linguistic dimension of racial discrimination Based upon extensive work carried out over many years by the Industrial Language Training Service in the U K this illuminating analysis argues that a real understanding of how language functions as a means of indirect racial discrimination must be founded on an expanded view of language which recognises the inseparability of language culture and meaning After initially introducing the subject matter of the book and providing an overview of discrimination and language learning the authors examine the relationship between theory and practice in four main areas theories of interaction and their application ethnographic and linguistic analysis of workplace settings training in communication for white professionals and language training for adult bilingual workers and job seekers Detailed case studies illustrate how theory can be turned into practice if appropriate information research development and training and co ordinated in an integrated response to issues of multi ethnic communication discrimination and social justice English Teaching Forum ,2000 Russian Language Teaching Methodology and Course Design James Davie, Neil Landsman, Lindsay Silvester, 1999 Usage-Based Second Language Instruction Ian Pemberton, 2024-03-05 This book proposes an innovative pedagogical approach Usage Based Second Language Instruction which continues the tradition of challenges to existing paradigms such as Steven Krashen's Natural Approach and Michael Lewis Lexical Approach It begins by analysing historical teaching methods to make the case for change The author argues that Communicative Language Teaching lacks a theory of learning and overemphasises spoken production as a result The book then examines theories of first language acquisition to establish a theoretical basis for change It finds that usage based theories offer a highly plausible account of language learning The author sets out six principles to guide the application of usage based theory to second language learning The book will be of particular interest to students and researchers of Applied Linguistics and Language Education The Negotiated Curriculum an Alternative Approach to the Planning, Implementation and Evaluation of Second/foreign Language Instruction Aleksandar Ilich, 1990 UEA Papers in Linguistics University of East Anglia, 1992 Participation and Educational Change Charmian Thirlwall, Beatrice Avalos, 1993 The Advanced Language Learner James Alexander Coleman, Richard Towell, 1987 The Gurara Journal of Humanity Studies ,2006 An Introduction to Psycholinguistics Danny D. language in its social context This book presents the first application of Brown and Levinson's ground breaking theoretical work in a full length comparative case study Maria Sifianou draws her data from a variety of sources including literature particularly drama questionnaires and personal observation She attempts to discover the principles underlying social interaction in both intracultural and intercultural contexts and discusses the extent to which the concept of politeness is common to different cultures She argues that politeness is conceptualized differently and thus manifested differently in the two societies under study Greeks tend to use more positive politeness devices than the English who prefer more negative devices Positive politeness is more closely related to friendliness negative politeness to formality Sifianou's analysis illustrates and supports the general claim that despite popular stereotypes there can be no objective verification for the view that one nation is more polite than another
