Sessa,Nathan A. Bowling,2020-12-21 Although the topic of job attitudes and other workplace psychological constructs such as perceptions identity bonds and motivational states is important there are no books addressing the topic as a whole Essentials of Job Attitudes and Other Workplace Psychological Constructs seeks to fill that void in a comprehensive edited volume that compiles chapters by experts on each construct Essentials of Job Attitudes and Other Workplace Psychological Constructs begins with a review of the concept of job attitudes and other workplace psychological constructs then devotes a single chapter to each construct. These chapters focus on organizational justice, perceived organizational support, organizational identification, job involvement, workplace commitments, job embeddedness, job satisfaction, employee engagement, and team related work attitudes. Each of these chapters addresses parallel content including definitions, history, theory, a critique of the field to date, with future research recommendations and how the given construct can be used in practice. There are two additional features that make this book unique: first, each chapter provides a nomological network figure of the workplace psychological construct addressed; and second, each chapter provides one or more of the current measures used to assess the construct of interest. Essentials of Job Attitudes and Other Workplace Psychological Constructs is an ideal text for students and professionals in industrial organizational psychology, organizational behavior, and human resource management.

Utilizing new wave research including new psychological theories, new statistical techniques and a stronger methodology, this collection unites a diversity of recent research perspectives on attitudes and the psychological functions of an attitude. The objective of the editors was to bring together the bits and pieces of validated data into one systematic and adequate set of general principles leading to the view of attitudes as predictions. As the volume reformulates old concepts, explores new angles and seeks a relationship among various sub areas, it also shows improvements in the sophistication of research designs and methodologies, the specifications of variables and the precision in defining concepts.
