Crawford,2019-05-06 One of the books most central to late antique religious life was the four gospel codex containing the Gospels of Matthew Mark Luke and John A common feature in such manuscripts was a marginal cross referencing system known as the Canon Tables This reading aid was invented in the early fourth century by Eusebius of Caesarea and represented a milestone achievement both in the history of the book and in the scholarly study of the fourfold gospel In this work Matthew R Crawford provides the first book length treatment of the origins and use of the Canon Tables apparatus in any language Part one begins by defining the Canon Tables as a paratextual device that orders the textual content of the fourfold gospel It then considers the relation of the system to the prior work of Ammonius of Alexandria and the hermeneutical implications of reading a four gospel codex equipped with the marginal apparatus Part two transitions to the reception of the paratext in subsequent centuries by highlighting four case studies from different cultural and theological traditions from Augustine of Hippo who used the Canon Tables to develop the first ever theory of gospel composition to a Syriac translator in the fifth century to later monastic scholars in Ireland between the seventh and ninth centuries Finally from the eighth century onwards Armenian commentators used the artistic adornment of the Canon Tables as a basis for contemplative meditation These four case studies represent four different modes of using the Canon Tables as a paratext and illustrate the potential inherent in the Eusebian apparatus for engaging with the fourfold gospel in a variety of ways from the philological to the theological to the visual
