Spatial Population Analysis:

Spatial Population Analysis Philip H. Rees, Alan Geoffrey Wilson, 1977 Spatial Population Analysis Frans Willekens, Andrei Rogers, 1978 Spatial population analysis P.H. Rees, Brian A. Maurer, 2009-07-08 Conservation biology using concepts from traditional resource management and modern population biology to preserve biological diversity has emerged as one of the most important areas of ecology. In order to really understand the problems of decreasing diversity and the solutions to maintaining it the attention of ecologists must be focused on larger spatial and temporal scales than they are used to. The book discusses methods and statistical techniques that can be used to analyze spatial patterns in geographic populations. These techniques incorporate ideas from fractal geometry to develop measures of geographic range fragmentation and can be used to ask questions regarding the conservation of biodiversity.

Spatial Population Analysis Using Movement Data and Accounting Methods Philip H. Rees, 1984 Spatial Population Analysis Using Movement Data and Accounting Methods Alan Geoffrey Wilson, M. Birkin, P. G. L. Forte, Philip Rees, Richard T. Smith, 1976 Geospatial Technology and the Role of Location in Science Henk J. Scholten, Rob Velde, Niels van Manen, 2009-07-06 Globalisation has not led to the death of geography. Intensified relations between communities in different parts of the world have only highlighted the need for understanding and managing phenomena on a variety of geographic scales. From global warming to credit crunch and from epidemics to terrorism causes and solutions are sought on local, regional, national as well as inter-continental levels. With the advent of Geospatial Technology scholars, policymakers and entrepreneurs have valuable tools in hand to proceed. This book offers the first systematic account of the science behind this mental and technological revolution. Tracing the adoption and dissemination of Geospatial Technology in a range of disciplines it examines the impact this technology has had and is likely to have on the explanation of spatial behaviour phenomena and processes. At the same time stressing innovative usage it explores scientific contributions to technology advancement.

SPA Philip H. Rees, 1981 Population Dynamics and Projection Methods John Stillwell, Martin Clarke, 2011-02-15 Although the human population growth rate of the world has been declining since peaking in the early 1960s the populations of individual countries are changing at different rates. Population dynamics at national level are partly determined by levels of fertility and mortality but the impact of international migration is playing an increasingly important role. Moreover internal migration plays a major part in population change at the sub-national level. This fourth volume in the series Understanding Population Trends and Processes is a celebration of the work of Professor Philip Rees. It contains chapters by contributors who have collaborated with Phil Rees on research or consultancy projects or as postgraduate students. Several chapters demonstrate the technical nature of population projection modelling and simulation methods while others illustrate issues relating to data availability and estimation. This book demonstrates the application of theoretical and modelling methods and addresses key issues relating to contemporary demographic patterns.
