Wright, 2002-08-31 Pacific Islander Americans constitute one of the United States least understood ethnic groups. As expected stereotypes abound: Samoans are good at football, Hawaiians make the best surfers, all Tahitians dance. Although Pacific history, society, and culture have been the subjects of much scholarly research, and writing the lives of Pacific Islanders in the diaspora, particularly in the U.S., have received far less attention. The contributors to this volume of articles and essays, compiled by the Pacific Islander Americans Research Project, hope to rectify this oversight. Pacific Diaspora brings together the individual and community histories of Pacific Island peoples in the U.S. It is designed for use in Pacific and ethnic studies courses, but it will also find an audience among those with a general interest in Pacific Islander Americans. In this book, based on a major conference sponsored by the Overseas Koreans Foundation (OKF) in Seoul in October 2002, experts hold up South Korea as one of the most dramatic examples of participation in the global economy, having gone from being a poor, underdeveloped country fewer than 40 years ago to becoming a postwar economic success story. This report also looks at South Korea's role as a regional trading partner and its present and future relations with North Korea. BACK COVER Cultures in Contact Dirk Hoerder, 2002-11-21. A landmark work on human migration around the globe, Cultures in Contact provides a history of the world told through the movements of its people. It is a broad, pioneering interpretation of the scope, patterns, and consequences of human migrations over the past ten centuries. In this magnum opus, thirty years in the making, Dirk Hoerder reconceptualizes the history of migration and immigration, establishing that societal transformation cannot be understood without taking into account the impact of migrations, and indeed that mobility is more characteristic of human behavior than is stasis. Signaling a major paradigm shift, Cultures in Contact creates an English language map of human movement that is not Atlantic Ocean based. Hoerder describes the origins, causes, and extent of migrations around the globe and analyzes the cultural interactions they have triggered. He pays particular attention to the consequences of immigration within the receiving countries. His work sweeps from the eleventh century forward through the end of the twentieth, when migration patterns shifted to include transpacific migration, return migrations from former colonies, refugee migrations, and distinct regional labor migrations in the developing world. Hoerder demonstrates that as we enter the third millennium, regional and intercontinental migration patterns no longer resemble those of previous centuries. They have been transformed by new communications systems and other forces of globalization and transnationalism. The Chinese Diaspora Laurence J. C. Ma, Carolyn L. Cartier, 2003.
