

A painting of a battle scene, likely a skirmish or rearguard action. In the foreground, a soldier in a blue uniform lies on the ground, aiming a rifle. To his right, a field gun is positioned on a wooden platform. The middle ground is filled with soldiers on horseback, some wearing red uniforms and others in blue, engaged in combat. The background shows a line of trees and a range of mountains under a hazy sky.

The Painted Word British History Painting 1750 1830:

The Painted Word P. Cannon-Brookes, 1991-01-01 In the latter half of the 18th century history painting ranked at the top of the hierarchy of genres which governed the theory of art in England. Hence portrait painters like Reynolds would base their portraits on the great models of antiquity and landscape painters such as Wilson and Turner embellished their views with classical or historical subjects

The Historical Imagination in Nineteenth-Century Britain and the Low Countries

2012-11-01 The nineteenth century laid the foundations of history as a professional discipline but also popularized and romanticized the subject. National histories were written and state museums founded while collective memories were created in fiction and drama art and architecture and through the growth of tourism and the emergence of a heritage industry. The authors of this collection compare Britain the Netherlands and Belgium unearthing the ways in which history was conceived and then utilized. They conclude that although nationalistic historicism ruled in all genres the interaction of the nineteenth century with its imagined past was far richer and more complex both across national borders and within them. Contributors include Niek van Sas Andrew Mycock Marnix Beyen Ellinoor Bergvelt Joep Leerssen Joanne Parker Anna Vaninskaya Jenny Graham Tom Verschaffel Saartje Vanden Borre Hugh Dunthorne and Michael Wintle

London and the Emergence of a European Art Market, 1780-1820 Susanna Avery-Quash, Christian Huemer, 2019-08-06 Showcasing diverse methodologies this volume illuminates London's central role in the development of a European art market at the turn of the nineteenth century. In the late 1700s as the events of the French Revolution roiled France London displaced Paris as the primary hub of international art sales. Within a few decades a robust and sophisticated art market flourished in London. London and the Emergence of a European Art Market 1780-1820 explores the commercial milieu of art sales and collecting at this turning point. In this collection of essays twenty two scholars employ methods ranging from traditional art historical and provenance studies to statistical and economic analysis. They provide overviews, case studies and empirical reevaluations of artists, collectors, patrons, agents and dealers, institutions, sales and practices. Drawing from pioneering digital resources notably the Getty Provenance Index as well as archival materials such as trade directories, correspondence, stock books and inventories, auction catalogs and exhibition reviews, these scholars identify broad trends, reevaluate previous misunderstandings and consider overlooked commercial contexts. From individual case studies to econometric overviews this volume is groundbreaking for its diverse methodological range that illuminates artistic taste and flourishing art commerce at the turn of the nineteenth century.

Britain in the Hanoverian Age, 1714-1837 Gerald Newman, Leslie Ellen Brown, 1997 In 1714 king George I ushered in a remarkable 123 year period of energy that changed the face of Britain and ultimately had a profound effect on the modern era. The pioneers of modern capitalism, industry, democracy, literature and even architecture flourished during this time and their innovations and influence spread throughout the British empire including the United States. Now this rich cultural period in Britain is effectively surveyed and summarized for quick reference in a first of its kind encyclopedia which contains entries by British Canadian American and Australian scholars specializing in everything from finance and the fine arts to politics and patent law More than 380 illustrations mostly rare engravings enhance the coverage which runs the whole gamut of political economic literary intellectual artistic commercial and social life and spotlights some 600 prominent individuals and families

Artwriting, Nation, and Cosmopolitanism in Britain

Mark Arthur Cheetham, 2012 Arguing in favour of a critical return to the nation as a category this study provides the first sustained account of artwriting in the British context over the full extent of its development from the eighteenth century to the present day Mark A Cheetham asks whether English traditions of artwriting have been judged inappropriately according to imported criteria and demonstrates that English Art Theory is not an oxymoron

Painted Word

Martin Butlin, David Alexander, Peter Cannon-Brookes, Geoffrey Ashton, 2002-02 In the latter half of the 18th century history painting ranked at the top of the hierarchy of genres which governed the theory of art in England Hence portrait painters like Reynolds would base their portraits on the great models of antiquity and landscape painters such as Wilson and Turner embellished their views with classical or historical subjects

William Rossetti's Art Criticism Julie L'Enfant, 1999 William Rossetti's Art Criticism examines the art criticism of William Michael Rossetti an underrated member of the Pre Raphaelite Brotherhood and places it within the context of Victorian Culture Drawing on many reviews never published in book form this study establishes Rossetti as a major art critic and valuable source of information on the Victorian world The author presents Rossetti's role in the Pre Raphaelite movement as editor of Germ and as a beginning reviewer when he maintained the realist creed seen in D G Rossetti Millais and Holman Hunt She then follows his broadening view through his exposure to French and Japanese art that affected his eventual sensitive response to James McNeill Whistler The study concludes with a personal examination of his final approach which he called aesthetic realism in which he is grounded in nineteenth century realism but also shows a twentieth century determination to examine works closely as autonomous objects It also addresses new findings in Rossetti's own Japanese art collection his search for a vital spirit of the past in the Classical and Gothic Revivals and his importance as an authoritative spokesman for humanistic values in Victorian culture

Art Index Retrospective , 1993 War, Empire and Slavery, 1770-1830 Richard Bessel, Nicholas Guyatt, Jane Rendall, 2010-09-08 The imperial warfare of the period 1770 1830 including the American wars of independence and the Napoleonic wars affected every continent Covering southern India the Caribbean North and South America and southern Africa this volume explores the impact of revolutionary wars and how people's identities were shaped by their experiences

The Scriblerian and the Kit-Cats , 1994 French and British Paintings from 1600 to 1800 in the Art Institute of Chicago Art Institute of Chicago, Malcolm Warner, Martha Wolff, 1996 The second in a series of scholarly catalogs on the permanent collections of The Art Institute of Chicago this volume focuses on the museum's important holdings of French and British paintings of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. The catalog contains comprehensive entries on close to one hundred paintings representing the full range of artistic production: portraiture, landscape, still life, genre, and history painting in France and Britain during this period. Featured are major works by some of the most significant artists of the time: Jacques-Louis David, Jean Honoré Fragonard, Claude Lorrain, Nicolas Poussin, and Jean Antoine Watteau among the French; Henry Fuseli, Thomas Gainsborough, Sir Joshua Reynolds, and Benjamin West among the British. Each painting in the catalog is accompanied by complete and up-to-date documentation including a detailed description of physical condition, a fully documented provenance, and a critical discussion of attribution, date, subject, and function, as well as a summary of earlier scholarship. Many of these works are little published and some are published here for the first time. Forty-one works are reproduced in color, the rest in duotone; there are also 101 comparative illustrations.

Blake, 1993. An illustrated quarterly.

James Ward R. A., 1769-1859 James Ward, 1991 The Eighteenth Century, 1998 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2000 Prints and Engraved Illustrations by and After Henry Fuseli David H. Weinglass, 1994. Throughout his lifetime the name Henry Fuseli (1741-1825) was constantly invoked as the epitome of untrammelled genius and originality. In our own day he is recognised not only as a seminal figure in the rise of Romanticism but as a great artist and master illustrator in his own right. He is also the only member of the Royal Academy ever to hold the positions of Professor of Painting and Keeper in that institution concurrently. This comprehensive catalogue of the prints and engraved illustrations by and after Henry Fuseli explores the nature and extent of Fuseli's role as history painter cum illustrator. It documents the intricate financial, artistic and business practices that shaped the complex working relationships between artist, engraver, printer and publisher. Such materials also help elucidate how engraved versions of Fuseli's and other artists' paintings stimulated public interest in the arts and literature, thereby becoming an important means of cultural transmission to the middle class.

Visions of Antiquity Susan M. Pearce, 2007. This fascinating portrait of the Society of Antiquaries of London founded in 1707 assesses the impact that individual Fellows and the Society as a whole have had in influencing the way we visualise and understand the past. There are, for example, essays on the Society's pioneering role in recording monuments and antiquities for posterity, in establishing the scientific and empirical basis of archaeological studies, in replacing Biblically based timeframes with a clearer understanding of deep time measured in millions of years, in drawing up the first legislation protecting ancient monuments and in funding and publishing the great excavations of the last one hundred years from Stonehenge, Maiden Castle, Richborough and Sutton Hoo to Aksum, Ethiopia and Mons Porphyrites, Egypt. All the papers represent fresh and original scholarship and they tell us much about the Society's achievements and some of the accompanying conflicts between personalities and ideas over three hundred years. They are based on diaries, letters, minute books and confidential government papers and on portraits that chart the changing image of the antiquary from a figure of fun to heroic seeker of forgotten people and civilizations Visions of Antiquity reveals astonishing echoes across time from the repeated and continuing attempts to record all ancient buildings and monuments to the continuity of the title antiquary to describe scholars who build bridges between different branches of knowledge based on the study of material remains of the past and of a Fellowship whose numbers have included prime ministers bishops peers and parliamentarians as well as radicals and free thinkers such as William Morris and many of the founders of modern conservation Oxford Dictionary of National Biography: Randolph-Rippingille Henry Colin Gray Matthew,Brian Harrison,2004 55 000 biographies of people who shaped the history of the British Isles and beyond from the earliest times to the year 2002 Angelica Kauffman Wendy Wassyng Roworth,1992
