The Bone People:

The Bone People Keri Hulme, 2024-12-10 Available as an eBook for the first time is Aotearoa New Zealand's first Booker Prize winning novel The Bone People by Keri Hulme. This powerful and mesmerising book tracks the complicated relationships between three outcasts: Kerewin, an artist estranged from her family and art; a mute boy called Simon who tries to steal from her; and his tender but brutal foster father, Joe.

Imagination and the Creative Impulse in the New Literatures in English Maria Teresa Bindella, Geoffrey V. Davis, 1993 Imagination and the Creative Impulse in the New Literatures in English brings together the proceedings of a symposium organised by the editors at the University of Trento in 1990. At a time when the study of the post-colonial literatures is gaining more widespread recognition, scholars based mainly at universities in Italy and Germany were invited to address the manner in which writers are giving literary expression to the complexity of contemporary post-colonial and multicultural societies and to consider from their differing perspectives on the new literatures central questions of formal experimentation, linguistic innovation, social and political commitment, textual theory and cross-culturality. Focusing on such major writers as Achebe, Soyinka and Walcott, as well as on lesser-known figures such as Jack Davis, Witi Ihimaera, Rohinton Mistry and Manohar Malgonkar, the contributors take up many themes characteristic of the new literatures: the challenge posed to traditional authority, the expression of national identity, the role of literature in the liberation struggle, modes of literary practice in multicultural societies, the relationship of the new literatures in English to that of the former metropolitan centre, and the complex intertextuality characterizing much of the literary production of post-colonial societies.

The Bone People Keri Hulme, 1985 At once a mystery, a love story and an ambitious exploration of the zone where Maori and European New Zealand meet. Booker Prize winning novel The Bone People is a powerful and unsettling tale saturated with violence and Maori spirituality.

The Circle & the Spiral Eva Rask Knudsen, 2004 In Aboriginal and Maori literature, the circle and the spiral are the symbolic metaphors for a never ending journey of discovery and rediscovery. The journey itself, with its indigenous perspectives and sense of orientation, is the most significant act of cultural recuperation. The present study outlines the fields of indigenous writing in Australia and New Zealand in the crucial period between the mid-1980s and the early 1990s, particularly eventful years in which postcolonial theory attempted to centre the margins and indigenous writers were keen to escape the particular centering offered in search of other positions more in tune with their creative sensibilities. Indigenous writing relinquished its narrative preference for social realism in favour of traversing old territory in new spiritual ways, roots converted into routes. Standard postcolonial readings of indigenous texts often overwrite the difference they seek to locate because critical orthodoxy predetermines what difference can be. Critical evaluations still tend to eclipse the ontological grounds of Aboriginal and M̄ori traditions and specific ways of moving through and behaving in cultural landscapes and social contexts. Hence the corrective applied in Circles and Spirals to look for locally and culturally specific tracks and traces that lead in other directions than those catalogued by postcolonial convention. This agenda is pursued by means of searching enquiries into the historical anthropological political and cultural determinants of the present state of Aboriginal and M̄ori writing principally fiction. Independent yet interrelated exemplary analyses of works by Keri Hulme and Patricia Grace and Mudrooroo and Sam Watson Australia provided the thick description that illuminates the author's central theses with comparative side glances at Witi Ihimaera Heretaunga Pat Baker and Alan Duff New Zealand and Archie Weller and Sally Morgan Australia.

Constructing National Identity in Keri Hulme's "the bone people"

Vivienne Jahnke, 2016-02-26 Master's Thesis from the year 2015 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1 3 University of Leipzig language English abstract This thesis analyses New Zealand writer Keri Hulme's novel the bone people and argues that she speaks to the core of her country's postcolonial identity crisis and in doing so compels her fellow New Zealanders to confront the social reality in their country and to enter into the discourse of who they want to be as a nation. Accordingly this thesis is going to analyse Hulme's writing strategies from a postcolonial viewpoint exploring matters of identity construction on an individual as well as on a national level. Does her novel succeed as literature partaking in the nation building process? A brief excursion into the realm of theory will provide the necessary framework for the analysis. After the in depth discussion of the bone people a comparative approach in the form of a closer look at some contemporary New Zealand writers dealing with New Zealand's postcolonial condition will provide additional depth. Works from some of New Zealand's most renowned authors Witi Ihimaera Patricia Grace Alan Duff and Eleanor Catton will be compared to the bone people. Finally a conclusion shall be drawn as to exactly how far New Zealand has come in its development as a country of bi or even multiculturalism since the publication of the bone people. It shall be discussed whether or not the novel's vision is one still relevant to New Zealand national identity today whether the momentum the Maori gained in their agenda to revitalise their culture out of which Hulme's novel has sprung had more than just a ceremonial effect on the country and consequently how Hulme's vision is holding up to the reality of New Zealand in the twenty first century.
