Under the Bombs Earl R. Beck, Under the Bombs tells the story of the civilian population of German cities devastated by Allied bombing in World War II These people went to work tried to keep a home though in many cases it was just a pile of rubble where a house once stood and attempted to live life as normally as possible amid the chaos of war Earl Beck also looks at the food and fuel rationing the German people endured and the problems of trying to make a public complaint while living in a totalitarian state

German Historians and the Bombing of German Cities Bas Benda-Beckmann, 2025-10-01 Today strategic aerial bombardments of urban areas that harm civilians at times intentionally are becoming increasingly common in global conflicts This book reveals the history of these tactics as employed by nations that initiated aerial bombardments of civilians after World War I and during World War II As one of the major symbols of German suffering the Allied bombing left a strong imprint on German society Bas von Benda Beckmann explores how German historical accounts reflected debates on postwar identity and looks at whether the history of the air war forms a counternarrative against the idea of German collective guilt Provocative and unflinching this study offers a valuable contribution to German historiography

Fire and Fury Randall Hansen, 2009-07-07 During the Second World War Allied air forces dropped nearly two million tons of bombs on Germany destroying some 60 cities killing more than half a million German citizens and leaving 80 000 pilots dead But the terrible truth is that much of the bombing was carried out against the expressed demands of the Allied military leadership leading to the needless deaths of hundreds of thousands of civilians Focusing on the crucial period from 1942 to 1945 Fire and Fury tells the story of the American and British bombing campaign through the eyes of those involved the military and civilian command in America Britain and Germany the aircrews in the skies who carried out their orders and civilians on the ground who felt the fury of the Allied attacks Here for the first time the story of the American and British air campaigns is told and the cost accounted for

The Bombing Of Germany Connie Rocca, 2021-04-15 In World War II approximately 410 000 German civilians were killed by Allied air raids From July 1944 to January 1945 an average of 13 536 people was killed every month In Hamburg alone about 49 000 civilians were killed by the Allied bombing and in Berlin about 35 000 During a single attack carried out at night from February 1st to 14th 1945 more than 20 000 civilians were killed in Dresden But not only cities had fallen victim to the Allies strategic bombing The medium sized town of Nordhausen lost about 20% of its population in one night attack in May 1945 Pfortzheim lost 22% Numerous cities medium sized towns and small towns had been the target of the Royal Air Force RAF and the US Air Force USAAF amongst them Karlsruhe Stuttgart Essen Bremen

 Excerpt The Bombing of Dresden was a military attack on the city of Dresden the capital of the German state of Saxony that took place in the final months of the Second World War In four raids between 13 and 15 February 1945 722 heavy bombers of the British Royal Air Force RAF and 527 of the United States Army Air Forces USAAF dropped more than 3 900 tons of high explosive bombs and incendiary devices on the city The resulting firestorm destroyed fifteen square miles 39 square kilometres of the city centre and caused tens of thousands of civilian casualties Post war discussion of whether or not the attacks were justified has led to the bombing becoming one of the moral causes celebres of the Second World War A 1953 United States Air Force report defended the operation as the justified bombing of a military and industrial target which was a major rail transportation and communication centre housing 110 factories and 50 000 workers in support of the German war effort However several researchers have Bombing Germany: The Final Phase Tony Redding, 2015-02-28 During 1942 and 1943 the striking power of RAF Bomber Command was transformed by the arrival of heavy bombers advanced navigation and blind bombing systems and new tactics to concentrate the bombers over the target and swamp the German defences By October 1944 most of Germany's cities were in ruins yet the bombing continued to intensify reaching unprecedented levels in the final seven months of the air campaign The value of further area raids was questioned during the opening months of 1945 yet the Allies destroyed the remaining cities in a bid to hasten the end of the war The handful of German cities still largely unscathed in early February 1945 included Dresden which was obliterated on 13 February Ten days later the South German city of Pforzheim was destined to suffer the same fate This book commemorates the efforts of the aircrew members who risked their lives consolidating a host of intriguing first hand accounts It also considers Pforzheim as a representative community under National Socialist rule The city's survivors remember the horror of the raid and its aftermath including eventual occupation by French Colonial troops and subsequently American forces Tony does an admirable job of presenting historical context when considering actions in times of extreme trauma and his narrative offers an intriguing engaging and poignant evocation of the closing months of Bomber Command's war The Bombing of Auschwitz Michael J. Neufeld, Michael Berenbaum, 2003 Could the Allies have prevented the deaths of tens of thousands of Holocaust victims Inspired by a conference held to mark the opening of the US Holocaust Memorial Museum this book brings together the key contributions to this debate The Bombing of Dublin's North Strand by German Luftwaffe Kevin C. Kearns, 2009-10-16 On the Whit bank holiday weekend of 1941 the neutral Irish capital was suddenly and inexplicably bombed by the German Luftwaffe On a gloriously starry night four bombs fell the last and most devastating at precisely 2 05 a m on 31 May There was a thunderous explosion and the earth quaked Tremors were felt as far away as Enniskerry and Mullingar Panic and pandemonium reigned in a city seized with fear Destruction was astonishing homes and shops in the North Strand were largely demolished 2 250 buildings in the city suffered some bomb damage over forty people were killed about 100 seriously injured many more wounded Hospitals and morgues filled within hours Almost 2 000 people were rendered homeless refugees It would later be determined that in terms of destructive performance a monstrous perfect bomb had done the deed For two thirds of a century no book was written on what the Evening Herald proclaimed a Night of Horror Later called a seismic event in Dublin's history Finally near the end of the century both the Irish Military Archive and Dublin City Archive declassified their documents on the bombing some stamped Secret for sixty years At last the theories and myths long surrounding the mysterious incident would be examined in the light of real evidence But the heart of a book on so human a tragedy is the oral historical testimony of survivors rescuers and observers who provide graphic eyewitness accounts This is a narrative social history of immense human drama The Effects of Strategic Bombing on German
