making space to negotiate the social arrangement of organizations with its organic components Volume 4 covers a variety of methodological topics from a storytelling perspective Why a storytelling perspective Consider that a common business research goal is to convince others that what the researcher has to say matters If the researcher is a basic researcher who wishes to promote a theory the goal is to make a convincing case for the value of that theory If the researcher is an applied researcher who wishes to promote a particular application intervention or policy change the goal is likewise to make a convincing case Either way the researcher has a story to tell and the onus is on the researcher to tell the best possible story storytelling failures likely will result in a failure to convince others of the value of one's theory or application Here is where methodological issues come into play Poor methodology whether in the form of less than optimal study designs or invalid statistical analyses harms story quality In contrast high quality methods and statistics enhance story quality Moreover the larger one's methodological and statistical toolbox the greater the opportunities for researchers to tell effective stories The chapters in this book come from a wide variety of perspectives and should enhance researchers storytelling in the following ways By opening many different methodological and statistical perspectives researchers should be more able to think of research stories that otherwise would remain unavailable or inaccessible Secondly the present chapters should aid researchers in better executing their research stories Therefore researchers and graduate students will find this book an invaluable resource Volume 5 opens a window into the world of quantum storytelling as an organizational research methodology providing numerous exemplars of work in this storytelling science that has disrupted qualitative inquiry only with the intention of providing expanded improved and generative ways of understanding and knowing the narratives that emerge from qualitative interviews and observations during organizational research studies Storytellers Corki
