

The Story of Anzac Day

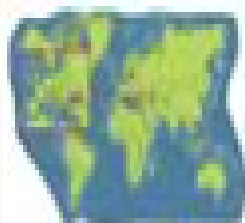

Australia and New Zealand are close together and the two countries help each other when needed.

The first we helped each other when they, long time ago during the First World War. New Zealand and Australia fought together in the Gallipoli and New Zealand Army Corps (NZAC). A war is when countries fight with each other. In the First World War, two countries fought with the fighting and it lasted for four years.

There are people who work in special jobs that help them to help during times of war. This is called our defence force and can include people from the Army, the Navy and the Airforce. The Army has soldiers who work to protect our countries on the ground. The Navy has sailors who usually work on ships and submarines to protect our countries. The Airforce has pilots who fly aeroplanes and protect our countries from the sky.

The Story of Anzac Day

Remember those who fought for us by celebrating Anzac Day which was the day our first arrived in Gallipoli in who fought died or were injured so that our country lives. We are able to travel and live where we want to, shops, schools, our jobs and manage our own lives. There are many special medals to honour their bravery. There are Anzac Day during the special services that are Australia and New Zealand. Typically, in New Zealand, it is with the Dawn Service. This is a service that is often in a hall that makes it easy to special moments. There are many medals to the soldiers that lost their lives, with of papers are lost in the war memorials. People find flowers to them after the battle in France and they are seen as a symbol of honour and respect to 'not find' a soldier. This is a special night in Anzac's memory. There are many people who have shared a memory of Anzac. There are many people who have shared a memory of Anzac.
