Strange Fits Of Passion:

Strange Fits of Passion Adela Pinch, 1996 This book contends that when late eighteenth and early nineteenth century writers sought to explain the origins of emotions they often discovered that their feelings may not really have been their own. It explores the paradoxes of representing feelings in philosophy, aesthetic theory, gender ideology, literature and popular sentimentalism and it argues that this period's obsession with sentimental wayward emotion was inseparable from the dilemmas resulting from attempts to locate the origins of feelings in experience. The book shows how these epistemological dilemmas became gendered by studying a series of extravagantly affective scenes. Hume's extraordinary confession of his own melancholy in the Treatise of Human Nature, Charlotte Smith's insistence that she really feels the gloomy feelings portrayed in her Elegiac Sonnets, Wordsworth's witnessing of a woman poet reading and weeping, tearful exchanges between fathers and daughters in the gothic novel, the climactic debate over the strengths of men's and women's feelings in Jane Austen's Persuasion and the poetic and public mourning of a dead princess in 1817.

Strange Fits of Passion I Too Have Known Julian Scutts, 2019-07-31 The picture on the front cover may need a word of explanation. Why should the author appear holding a copy of one of his books? I hope this is not an indication of vanity; in my case I plead that the issue at stake here is reflexivity. After a while authors may find themselves reading long-forgotten passages they have written and thus become the critics of their own works. Inevitably they will fault with lapses of style and inept or colourless forms of expression. On the other hand they may find the occasional felicitous turn of phrase and even purple passages among long screeds of otherwise mediocre prose. Why did these passages go under and what can be done to bring them to the surface to the possible gratification and enrichment of the reading public?

William Wordsworth: Lucy Strange Fits of Passion I Have Known, As part of the Literature Network Chris Beasley provides the full text of the poem entitled Lucy Strange Fits of Passion I Have Known. This poem was written by the English poet William Wordsworth 1770-1850.

Men Writing the Feminine Thais E. Morgan, 1994-08-04 The introductory essay provides an overview of current issues and methodologies in gender theory while the 11 essays in the book discuss novels and poems from the seventeenth century to the present by British, American and French male writers who speak as through or like the feminine.

A World of Difference Barbara Johnson, 1989 New to the paperback edition is a preface that readdresses the question of the politics of deconstruction in the context of current discussion about the life and works of Paul de Man.
