Early Music and the Aesthetics of Ezra Pound Robert Merritt, 1993 Ezra Pound's assimilation of some of the aesthetic values of the music of the 16th and 17th centuries is thought to have formed one of the important bases for his more general critical convictions Some of the qualities important to Pound's overall aesthetic philosophy also characterize the old music including the effect of medium on overall meaning impersonality concision and small scale tension between fundamental irregularity and classicism of surface and the moral and intellectual value of sharp distinct form Pound's studies of the technical foundations of music affected much of his poetic and theoretical work

Isolde Ahlgrimm, Vienna and the Early Music Revival Peter Watchorn, 2007-01-01 Isolde Ahlgrimm 1914 1995 was an important pioneer in the revival of Baroque and Classical keyboard instruments in her native city Vienna and later throughout Europe and the United States Ahlgrimm's performances of Baroque music represented a radical departure from the distinctly twentieth century interpretations by the much more famous Wanda Landowska and her followers Peter Watchorn provides an engaging study of Ahlgrimm and argues that her contribution to the harpsichord and fortepiano revival was pivotal and that her use of period instruments and the inspiration she instilled in younger musicians including Nikolaus Harnoncourt and Gustav Leonhardt has been almost entirely overlooked by the wider musical world

Beyond Aesthetics Christopher Pinney, Nicholas Thomas, 2020-05-25 The anthropology of art is currently at a crossroads Although well versed in the meaning of art in small scale tribal societies anthropologists are still wrestling with the question of how to interpret art in a complex post colonial environment Alfred Gell recently confronted this problem in his posthumous book Art and Agency The central thesis of his study was that art objects could be seen not as bearers of meaning or aesthetic value but as forms mediating social action At a stroke Gell provocatively dismissed many longstanding but tired questions of definition and issues of aesthetic value His book proposed a novel perspective on the roles of art in political practice and made fresh links between analyses of style tradition and society Offering a new overview of the anthropology of art this book begins where Gell left off Presenting wide ranging critiques of the limits of aesthetic interpretation the workings of objects in practice the relations between meaning and efficacy and the politics of postcolonial art its distinguished contributors both elaborate on and dissent from the controversies of Gells important text Subjects covered include music and the internet as well as ethnographic traditions and contemporary indigenous art Geographically its case studies range from India to Oceania to North America and Europe
