Beam Piper, John Joseph McGuire, 2023-08-22 Lone Star Planet presents a nuanced exploration of speculative political narratives where H Beam Piper and John Joseph McGuire dive into intriguing visions of governance and diplomacy within a universe that mirrors yet uniquely diverges from our own societal structures. This anthology embodies a rich spectrum of literary craftsmanship positioning itself squarely within the golden age of science fiction. Its stories marked by their imaginative breadth and depth delve into themes of autonomy, rebellion, and the intricate dance between power and responsibility, offering readers a highly engaging blend of speculative thought experiments and interstellar intrigue. The authors, both pivotal figures in mid 20th century science fiction, bring together a wealth of experience and insight into the genre. Piper, known for his detailed world building and exploration of sociopolitical themes, alongside McGuire's knack for nuanced narratives, provides a compelling backdrop against which the themes of Lone Star Planet are cast. I'll be with You in a Minute, Mr. Ambassador Allan Gotlieb, 1991 Allan Gotlieb holds the record for service by a Canadian ambassador in Washington: eight years. Between 1981 and 1989 he negotiated the controversial issues of free trade, acid rain, and Arctic sovereignty. Traditionally, ambassadors deal with the executive of national government principally through the foreign ministry. And their dealings are carried out discreetly behind closed doors. That is the situation Allan Gotlieb expected to find when he was appointed ambassador. He soon learned better. In Washington power in foreign affairs is diffused among a myriad of forces: Congress and its committees and subcommittees its individual members and their staffs the White House the State Department other government departments and agencies special interest groups the media celebrity columnists lobbyists lawyers and secretaries Gotleib became an acknowledged master of the new diplomacy relating to all these groups an effective lobbyist as well as a skilled diplomat In this extended essay he describes his Washington experiences and offers strategies for dealing with Washington's dispersed and shared system of decision making in foreign affairs Book jacket The Manuscripts of Henry Duncan Skrine, Esq Great Britain.
