Code of Federal Regulations, 1997 Research Handbook on the Economics of Family Law Lloyd R. Cohen, Joshua D. Wright, 2011-01-01 Those not learned in the economic arts believe that economics is either solely or essentially concerned with commercial relations And so it was originally Then in the second half of the 20th century economists began applying their minimalist but sturdy tools to other human activities such as marriage child bearing crime religion and social groups In this spirit the Research Handbook on the Economics of Family Law gives us a series of original essays by distinguished scholars in economics law or both The essays represent a variety of approaches to the field Many contain extensive surveys of the literature with respect to the particular question they address Some employ empirical economics others are more narrowly legal They have in common one thing each scholar employs a core economic tool or insight to shed light on some aspect of family law and social institutions broadly understood Topics covered include divorce child support infant feeding abortion access prostitution the decline in marriage birth control and incentives for partnering This comprehensive and enlightening volume will be a valuable reference for those interested in law and economics generally and family law in particular

Balancing the Big Stuff Miriam Liss, Holly H. Schiffrin, 2014-08-07 While the current conversation about work family balance and having it all tends to focus on women both men and women are harmed when conditions make it impossible to balance meaningful work with family life Yet both will benefit from re evaluating what it means to have it all and fighting for changes in their relationships and society to make greater equality possible Here Miriam Liss and Holly Hollomon Schiffrin discuss the ways in which we all define having it all and how we can obtain it for ourselves through a better evaluation of what we want from ourselves our families our jobs and each other Determining a 50 50 division of labor around the house may not be the thing that works for everyone Working from home or not at all may not be the thing to bring us satisfaction but learning what studies show and how to feel balanced and make those decisions to bring balance is crucial The authors argue that people can find balance in their roles by doing things in moderation Although being engaged in both parenting and work is good for well being people can avoid the pitfalls of over parenting and over working They show that balance can come from a meaningful consideration of what happiness and contentedness mean to us as individuals and how best to achieve our goals within the limitations of our current circumstances They illustrate that balance is not simply an individual problem Social issues such as the lack of parental leave flexible work schedules and affordable high quality child care make balance difficult With attention now on the issue they argue that it's time men and women advocate for better services and better opportunities to achieve balance happiness and success in all their roles
