The Central Nervous System Aging:

Aging of the Central Nervous System V. V. Frolkis,V. V. Bezrukov,1979-11-16 Aging of the Central Nervous System
V.V. Frolkis,V.V. Bezrukov,1974 The Central Nervous System and Aging A. H. Norris,M. Ellenberg,V. M. Dilman,1973

The Central Nervous System & Aging Arthur H. Norris,Max Ellenberg,1974 Aging and Recovery of Function in the Central Nervous System Stephen W. Scheff,2013-11-11 The mammalian central nervous system is a remarkable structure which has attracted many new investigators as evidenced by the dramatic increase in scientific publications dealing with neurobiology Every day basic scientists conduct new and exciting experiments resulting in remarkable discoveries designed to help mankind Unfortunately many of these new findings are slow to be accepted by the clinical world This is especially true in the area of brain trauma where the present prognosis is usually very poor We have known for quite some time that the mammalian central nervous system is capable of compensating for severe damage in many different ways and under some circumstances behavioral compensation can be observed However much is still to be learned about the various factors and events that lead to functional recovery and those conditions that do not It is this challenge that originally excited a number of the contributors to this volume to explore the subject of recovery from brain damage One factor in particular that is known to change the prognosis of recovery is the age of the organism at the time of the damage This book is an attempt to explore this important variable Most of the literature concerning aging deals with widespread degenerative changes and paints a grim picture for the aging central nervous system in terms of recovery of function following trauma

The Changing Visual System P. Bagnoli,W. Hodos,2012-12-06 In late May and early June 1991 a NATO Advanced Study Institute was held at a hotel in the hilltop village of San Martino al Cimino a few kilometers from the city of Viterbo in the Lazio region of Italy The title of the course was the same as this volume and brought together specialists working at all phases of the life span embryology infancy childhood middle life and senescence in both animals and humans to exchange ideas facts and theories in the search for common principles Such principles could prove important for understanding developmental changes in the central nervous system and visual behavior within the context of a continuum of life span processes rather than viewing them as events or mechanisms that occur only in a certain period For example changes that are associated with aging were considered as extensions or continuations of processes that began at an earlier stage of the life span rather than being seen as processes that only began late in life

The Central Nervous System Per Brodal,1998 There is also new material throughout the text on such topics as cortical processing and its imaging consciousness and sleep cognitive functions of the cerebellum the functional organization of the basal forebrain pain clinical disturbances of the somatosensory system color vision and cerebral lateralization In addition the text has been reorganized to improve its clarity in places including the chapters on the hypothalamus the peripheral autonomic nervous system and the cerebral cortex

Impact of Nervous System Declines on Muscle Performance in Aging Brian C. Clark, Timothy D. Law Sr., S. Lee

Hong, 2015-12-18 Download PDF Download EPUB The deterioration of skeletal muscle performance e g declines in muscle strength and motor performance with advancing age has long been anecdotally recognized as Shakespeare pointed out nearly a half millennium ago in his monologue The Seven Ages of Man and has been of scientific interest for well over a century Over the past several decades the scientific and medical communities have recognized that reduced skeletal muscle performance is a debilitating and life threatening condition in the elderly For example the age associated loss of muscle strength as well as impairment in the ability to finely control movement is highly associated with physical disability and difficulty performing activities of daily living While the nervous system is widely recognized for its role in controlling skeletal muscle during motor function its role in determining the performance characteristics of aged skeletal muscle has largely been understudied Historically it was believed that these reductions in muscle performance were primarily resultant of age associated adaptations in skeletal muscle e g muscle atrophy However aging is associated with widespread qualitative and quantitative changes in both the central and peripheral nervous systems that are likely to influence numerous aspects of muscle performance such as muscle strength fatigue and motor control as well as mobility In this research topic we sought to examine a broad range of issues surrounding 1 the age related changes in nervous system anatomical physiological and biochemical changes in the central and or peripheral nervous systems 2 the functional role of these nervous system changes in contributing to altered skeletal muscle performance and or mobility and 3 physical and pharmacologic interventions that act via the nervous system to enhance muscle performance and or mobility Researchers and academicians engaged in aging neuroscience and or applied physiology research focused within the scope of this research topic were encouraged to contribute an original research article review article clinical case study hypothesis and theory article method article opinion article or technology report to this research topic Herein we present a series of outstanding articles within this scope of work including a last minute addition article from Wiesmeier, Dalin and Maurer that is not mentioned in the editorial that we hope will help to vertically advance the intersecting fields of aging geriatrics and neuroscience Lastly as the editors we wish to thank all article contributors and peer reviewers for their efforts in contributing to this Research Topic journal issue book Additionally we would like to thank people everywhere who volunteer their time and body for human subjects research studies such that are presented herein It is the wonderful individuals who are willing to participate in experiments that make scientific exploration and health and medical advancements possible Neurogerontology James F. Willott, PhD, 1999-07-25 Neurogerontology tells the story of how the aging brain affects all aspects of cognition and physical performance It comprehensively links the principles and substance of neuroscience with gerontology and psychology Written largely from a behavioral neuroscience perspective Neurogerontology explores the functional relationships between the central nervous system and psychological phenomena of aging including perception arousal learning cognition and motor behavior Willot emphasizes healthy aging but dementia and other pathological conditions are discussed when relevant This evidence based approach to the neuroscience of aging makes this a valuable reference for professionals as well as an informative textbook for students in gerontology courses Ageing of the Central Nervous System Interdisciplinary Society of Biological Psychiatry,Dutch Society of Neuro-Psychology,1972 The Biogenic Amines in the Central Nervous System ,1976
