The Inheritance, a modern adaptation of E.M. Forster's Howards End, portrays a group of young men navigating life, love, friendship, and loss following the aftermath of the AIDS crisis.

Join them as they grow in their understanding of intergenerational responsibilities, caring and healing. Three generations collide with explosive results.

Patchworks of Purpose Gerard William Boychuk,1998 Asserts that Canada has ten different social assistance programs that reflect the historical development of assistance within each province To examine specific patterns of social assistance the author develops a five fold typology consisting of residual market family enforcement conservative market performance and redistributive models He uses the typology to compare development of assistance provisions in the provinces provincial responses to federal initiatives and unique trajectories of assistance regimes He concludes by surveying some of the broader implications of his findings for issues such as the development of national standards and the impact of globalization on social assistance provision Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR
