Donaghy,Stefan Poppelreuter,Georg Rudinger,2005 Mobilities: New Perspectives on Transport and Society

Professor John Urry,Professor Margaret Grieco,2012-11-28 Bringing together the leading authors currently working at the intersection of social science and transport science this volume provides a companion to the well established and extensive international Transport and Society series Each chapter and the volume as a whole offers closer and richer consideration of the issues practices and structures of multiple mobilities which shape the current world but which have typically been overlooked or minimised What this approach seeks to do is not only draw attention to many new areas of research and investigation relating to mobile lives but also to point to new theories and methods by which such lives have to be researched and examined Such new theories and methods are relevant both to rethinking transport studies as such but are also recasting societal studies as transport so that it comes out of the ghetto and enters mainstream social science

Sustainable Railway Futures Becky P.Y. Loo,Claude Comtois,2016-03-03 Revitalizing railways as a major sustainable transport mode in modern societies faces many issues and challenges This in depth overview places the importance of railways in the wider context of comprehensive sustainability which encompasses sustainable development social and economic equity and community livability Some scholars have described the 21st century as a period of renaissance for railways and suggest this transport mode can fulfil people s desire for high mobility with low negative environmental social economic and financial impacts In light of these new expectations for railways in both passenger and freight transport worldwide this book offers the latest research insights on the renewed interest about railway expansions and their wide ranging environmental socio economic and even political implications

Social Networks and Travel Behaviour Matthias

Kowald,Kay W. Axhausen,2016-03-03 In aiming to understand and model peoples out of home movements the academic field of transport planning is confronted with two major challenges Firstly leisure travel is increasing in importance and is more complex and variable than work related travel being less rigid in temporal and spatial patterns and more influenced by external factors such as social contacts or weather conditions Secondly traditional aggregated transport models do not include any information on peoples social interactions or their personal social networks In contrast the recent development and availability of disaggregated models allows more detailed modelling of elements such as individual characteristics motivations constraints and travel costs as well as a consideration of influences from an actor's social environment People travel not only within an infrastructure but also within a social structure These two main factors have driven transport planners to focus on peoples interaction and their social network In recent years there have been a remarkable number of data collection efforts in the field surveying information on the link between travel behaviour and social motivation Providing an overview of selected exemplary studies this volume addresses the overlap between transport planning and methods of social network analysis applied methods of social network analysis and related empirical results and current challenges and new research questions in this field
