Text Generation Kathleen McKeown,1992-06-26 Kathleen McKeown explores natural language text and presents a formal analysis of problems in a computer program TEXT User Modelling in Text Generation Cecile Paris,2015-12-17 This book addresses the issue of how the user's level of domain knowledge affects interaction with a computer system. It demonstrates the feasibility of incorporating a model of user's domain knowledge into a natural language generation system.

Lexical Semantics and Knowledge Representation in Multilingual Text Generation Manfred Stede,2012-12-06 In knowledge based natural language generation issues of formal knowledge representation meet with the linguistic problems of choosing the most appropriate verbalization in a particular situation of utterance. Lexical Semantics and Knowledge Representation in Multilingual Text Generation presents a new approach to systematically linking the realms of lexical semantics and knowledge represented in a description logic. For language generation from such abstract representations lexicalization is taken as the central step when choosing words that cover the various parts of the content representation. The principal decisions on conveying the intended meaning are made. A preference mechanism is used to construct the utterance that is best tailored to parameters representing the context. Lexical Semantics and Knowledge Representation in Multilingual Text Generation develops the means for systematically deriving a set of paraphrases from the same underlying representation with the emphasis on events and verb meaning. Furthermore the same mapping mechanism is used to achieve multilingual generation. English and German output are produced in parallel on the basis of an adequate division between language neutral and language specific lexical and grammatical knowledge. Lexical Semantics and Knowledge Representation in Multilingual Text Generation provides detailed insights into designing the representations and organizing the generation process. Readers with a background in artificial intelligence, cognitive science, knowledge representation, linguistics or natural language processing will find a model of language production that can be adapted to a variety of purposes. Introduction to Python and Large Language Models Dilyan Grigorov,2024-10-22 Gain a solid foundation for Natural Language Processing. NLP and Large Language Models (LLMs) emphasizing their significance in today's computational world. This book is an introductory guide to NLP and LLMs with Python programming. The book starts with the basics of NLP and LLMs. It covers essential NLP concepts such as text preprocessing, feature engineering and sentiment analysis using Python. The book offers insights into Python programming covering syntax, data types, conditionals, loops, functions and object oriented programming. Next it delves deeper into LLMs, unraveling their complex components. You'll learn about LLM elements including embedding layers, feedforward layers, recurrent layers and attention mechanisms. You'll also explore important topics like tokens, token distributions, zero shot learning, LLM hallucinations and insights into popular LLM architectures such as GPT-4, BERT, T5, PALM and others. Additionally it covers Python libraries like Hugging Face, OpenAI API and Cohere. The final chapter bridges theory with practical application offering step by step examples of coded applications for tasks like text generation.

The Linguistic Basis of Text Generation Laurence Danlos,2009-04-09 This study presents an original and penetrating analysis of the complex problems surrounding the automatic generation of natural language text Laurence Danlos provides a valuable critical review of research in this important and increasingly active field and goes on to describe a theoretical model that is thoroughly grounded in linguistic principles The model emphasises the semantic syntactic and lexical constraints that must be dealt with when establishing a relationship between meaning and form and it is consideration of such linguistic constraints that determines Danlos generation algorithm The book concludes with a description of a generation system based on this algorithm which produces texts in several domains and also a system for the synthesis of spoken messages from semantic representation The book is a significant addition to the literature on text generation and will be of particular interest to all computational linguists and AI researchers who have wrestled with the problem of vocabulary selection

Systemic Text Generation as Problem Solving Terry Patten,1988 An exploration of a new approach to text generation that interprets systemic grammar as a computational representation Patten demonstrates that systemic grammar can be easily and automatically translated into current AI knowledge representations and efficiently processed by the same knowledge based techniques currently exploited by expert systems Thus the fundamental methodological problem of interfacing specialized computational representations with equally specialized linguistic representations can be resolved The study provides a detailed discussion of the formal model proposed and of a substantial implementation including a relatively large systemic grammar It represents a fundamental and productive contribution to the literature of text generation Creation of Hierarchic Text with a Computer Display Wilfred J.
