Postcolonial and Gender Perspectives in Irish Studies Marisol Morales Ladrón, 2007 This book represents an attempt to tackle questions related to fragmented and often conflicting ideologies within Irish studies Although a collective outcome with contributions in English and Spanish its unifying concern has been the appliance of postcolonial and gender perspectives to the analysis of Irish literature prose drama and verse and cinema as well as to the aesthetic production of both the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland Along the volume while some authors have chosen to delve into the broad theoretical debate concerning the position of Irish studies within postcolonial and feminist theories others offer detailed examinations of specific literary pieces and authors that fit in this panorama All in all the chapters are wide and diverse enough to trace a spatial and temporal map of the evolution of these paradigms within contemporary Irish studies North and South of the border     Irish Women Writers Speak Out Caitriona Moloney, Helen Thompson, 2003-03-01 Bringing together the diverse and marvelously articulate voices of women of Irish and Irish American descent editors Caitriona Moloney and Helen Thompson examine the complicated maps of experience that the women's public private and literary lives represent particularly as they engage in both feminism and postcolonialism Acknowledging Mary Robinson's revised view of Irish identity now global rather than local this work recognizes the importance of identity as a site of mobility The pieces reveal how complex the terms feminism and postcolonialism are they examine how the individual writers see their identities constructed and or mediated by sexuality In addition the book traces common themes of female agency violence generational conflicts migration emigration religion and politics to name a few As it represents the next wave of Irish women writers this book offers fresh insight into the work of emerging and established authors and will appeal to a new generation of readers
