Beauvoir and Sartre Christine Daigle, Jacob Golomb, 2009 Addresses questions of influence between two of the 20th century's greatest minds Australian Book Review, 2006 New Perspectives on Sartre Adrian Mirvish, Adrian Van den Hoven, 2010 This volume deals with a number of topics that have not previously been specifically addressed before in a single text A chapter on Sartre and religion talks about his thought in relation to Christianity Judaism and Buddhism while one on Sartre and children discusses his work in relation to the issues of freedom pregnancy and autism Beyond this there are an additional seven chapters covering a wide variety of topics by leading scholars in the fields of philosophy literature psychology history and political thought While prior publications on Sartre have generally divided his work into two periods pre and post Marxist this volume deliberately stresses a middle and final period as well As representative of the middle period there is an emphasis on Notebooks for an Ethics while Sartre's last work Hope Now is also treated as being philosophically significant in its own right This approach helps to cast a new light on what Sartre has to say about authenticity childhood and consciousness as embodied among other subjects The volume also addresses many and diverse issues of current interest including those of freedom Marxism and Sartre's relation to ethics There are sections of the book that deal with history and the historical situations that helped to shape Sartre's thought as well as articles that deal with Sartre as a specifically French thinker A chapter deals with Sartre's relation to women and here the issues of maternity as problematic plus authentic adult relationships are discussed Finally in addition to authors in philosophy and literature there are articles by a child psychiatrist and a clinical psychologist to help to provide new insights on Sartre's work Even as an academic philosopher Sartre always remained an iconoclast and the aim of this book is at least partially to capture and provide the reader with insight into this spirit

Sartre's Second Century B. P. O'Donohoe, R. O. Elveton, 2009 Sartre's Second Century reflects the richness of Sartre's vision of the human condition the diversity of the means he employed in grappling with it and the lengthy trajectory of his itinerary in a variety of wider cultural perspectives The centenary of Sartre's birth in 2005 was the primary occasion for many of the essays included in this volume Hosted by the UK or North American Sartre Societies contributors participating in Sartre's centennial celebrations were asked to address the central themes and overall development of his life and thought As the present collection shows the attempt to present Sartre in a retrospective
