

The diagram is a complex electrical schematic for a ship's system. It features a central horizontal busbar with numerous connection points. Above this busbar, there are several rows of circular components, likely representing pumps or valves, each with its own set of control wires. To the right of the busbar, there are more complex components, including what appears to be a motor or generator, and a series of smaller switches or relays. The bottom of the diagram shows a dense array of wires, some of which are labeled with numbers (1 through 100). The overall layout is organized into distinct sections, with labels indicating the function of various parts, such as 'PUMP', 'VALVE', and 'SWITCH'. The diagram is a technical drawing, likely used for installation or troubleshooting purposes.
