Successful Writing Maxine Hairston,1981      Successful Writing Maxine Cousins Hairston,1992-01      Essays on Classical Rhetoric and Modern Discourse Robert J. Connors,Lisa S. Ede,Andrea A. Lunsford,1984 Eighteen essays by leading scholars in English speech communication education and philosophy explore the vitality of the classical rhetorical tradition and its influence on both contemporary discourse studies and the teaching of writing Some of the essays investigate the rhetorical and historical issues Others show the bearing of classical rhetoric on contemporary problems in composition thus blending theory and practice Common to the varied approaches and viewpoints expressed in this volume is one central theme the 20th century revival of rhetoric entails a recovery of the classical tradition with its marriage of a rich and fully articulated theory with an equally efficacious practice A preface demonstrates the contribution of Edward P J Corbett to the 20th century revival and a last chapter includes a bibliography of his works      Very Like a Whale Edward M. White,Norbert Elliot,Irvin Peckham,2015-03-04 Written for those who design redesign and assess writing programs Very Like a Whale is an intensive discussion of writing program assessment issues Taking its title from Hamlet the book explores the multifaceted forces that shape writing programs and the central role these programs can and should play in defining college education Given the new era of assessment in higher education writing programs must provide valid evidence that they are serving students instructors administrators alumni accreditors and policymakers This book introduces new conceptualizations associated with assessment making them clear and available to those in the profession of rhetoric and composition writing studies It also offers strategies that aid in gathering information about the relative success of a writing program in achieving its identified goals Philosophically and historically aligned with quantitative approaches White Elliot and Peckham use case study and best practice scholarship to demonstrate the applicability of their innovative approach termed Design for Assessment DFA Well grounded in assessment theory Very Like a Whale will be of practical use to new and seasoned writing program administrators alike as well as to any educator involved with the accreditation process

The Effects of Hedges on Readers' Learning from Prose Avon Crismore,William J. Vande Kopple,1989      Resources in Education ,1998      Audience and Rhetoric James E. Porter,1992 Offering a new approach to the concept of audience this volume critiques the prevalent audience theories and practices in the field of rhetoric and composition using the archaeological methodology of Michel Foucault The author traces major audience treatments from Aristotle and George Campbell to the present and shows how the dominant approaches are founded on a managerial composing model which assumes that invention is the exclusive activity of the writer Porter argues for the ethical necessity of a social constructionist approach to audience developing out of reader response and poststructuralist theory For anyone involved in the creation of public policy      Writing Effectively in Business Beth Neman,Sandra Smythe,1992      To Know Her Own History Kelly Ritter,2012-02-20 To Know Her Own History chronicles the evolution of writing programs at a landmark Southern women's college during the postwar period Kelly Ritter finds that despite its conservative Southern culture and vocational roots the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina was a unique setting where advanced writing programs and creativity flourished long before these trends emerged nationally Ritter profiles the history of the Woman's College first as a normal school where women trained as teachers with an emphasis on composition and analytical writing then as a liberal arts college She compares the burgeoning writing program here to those of the Seven Sisters Wellesley Smith Radcliffe Barnard Vassar Bryn Mawr and Mount Holyoke and to elite all male universities to show the singular progressivism of the Woman's College Ritter presents lively student writing samples from the early postwar period to reveal a blurring of the boundaries between creative and expository styles By midcentury a quantum shift toward creative writing changed administrators' valuation of composition courses and staff at the Woman's College An intensive process of curricular revisions modeled after Harvard's Redbook plan was proposed and rejected in 1951 as the college stood by its unique curricula and singular values Ritter follows the plight of individual instructors of creative writing and composition showing how their compensation and standing were made disproportionate by the shifting position of expository writing in relation to creative writing Despite this unsettled period the Woman's College continued to gain in stature and by 1964 it became a prize acquisition of the University of North Carolina system Ritter's study demonstrates the value of local histories to uncover undocumented advancements in writing education offering insights into the political cultural and social conditions that influenced learning and methodologies at marginalized schools such as the Woman's College
