Surveillance Over Canada:

Law, Privacy and Surveillance in Canada in the Post-Snowden Era Michel Geist, 2017-09-26 Years of surveillance related leaks from US whistleblower Edward Snowden have fuelled an international debate on privacy spying and Internet surveillance. Much of the focus has centered on the role of the US National Security Agency yet there is an important Canadian side to the story. The Communications Security Establishment Transparent Lives Colin J. Bennett, Kevin D. Haggerty, David Lyon, Valerie Steeves, 2014-04-01. Although most Canadians are familiar with surveillance cameras and airport security, relatively few are aware of the extent to which the potential for surveillance is now embedded in virtually every aspect of our lives. We cannot walk down a city street, register for a class, pay with a credit card, hop on an airplane or make a telephone call without data being captured and processed. Where does such information go? Who makes use of it and for what purpose? Is the loss of control over our personal information merely the price we pay for using social media and other forms of electronic communication or should we be wary of systems that make us visible and thus vulnerable to others as never before? The work of a multidisciplinary research team Transparent Lives explains why and how surveillance is expanding, mostly unchecked, into every facet of our lives. Through an investigation of the major ways in which both government and private sector organizations gather, monitor, analyze and share information about ordinary citizens, the volume identifies nine key trends in the processing of personal data that together raise urgent questions of privacy and social justice. Intended not only to inform but to make a difference, the volume is deliberately aimed at a broad audience including legislators and policymakers, journalists, civil liberties groups, educators and, above all, the reading public. <http://surveillanceincanada.org>

Federalism, Democracy and Health Policy in Canada Queen's University (Kingston, Ont.). Institute of Intergovernmental Relations, 2001. An exploration of the ways in which federal and provincial governments relate to one another and to the citizenry in the making of health policy.

Sessional Papers of the Dominion of Canada Canada. Parliament, 1899. Report of the Dominion fishery commission on the fisheries of the province of Ontario 1893 issued as vol 26 no 7 supplement. Eyes Everywhere Aaron Doyle, Randy Lippert, David Lyon, 2013-03-01. In many countries, camera surveillance has become commonplace and ordinary citizens and consumers are increasingly aware that they are under surveillance in everyday life. Camera surveillance is typically perceived as the archetype of contemporary surveillance technologies and processes. While there is sometimes fierce debate about their introduction, many others take the cameras for granted or even applaud their deployment. Yet what the presence of surveillance cameras actually achieves is still very much in question. International evidence shows that they have very little effect in deterring crime and in making people feel safer, but they do serve to place certain groups under greater official scrutiny and to extend the reach of today's surveillance society. Eyes Everywhere provides the first international perspective on the development of camera surveillance. It scrutinizes the quiet but massive expansion of camera surveillance around the world in recent years, focusing especially on Canada, the

UK and the USA but also including less debated but important contexts such as Brazil China Japan Mexico South Africa and Turkey Containing both broad overviews and illuminating case studies including cameras in taxi cabs and at mega events such as the Olympics the book offers a valuable oversight on the status of camera surveillance in the second decade of the twenty first century The book will be fascinating reading for students and scholars of camera surveillance as well as policy makers and practitioners from the police chambers of commerce private security firms and privacy and data protection agencies

Surveillance Over Canada George Lindsey,Gordon Sharpe,Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security,1990 This paper outlines Canadian needs for surveillance both for defence and for civilian purposes and the capabilities and limitations of modern surveillance technology It discusses the problems of structuring the armed forces to be useful for national functions in a period of international detente but to also be able to continue to perform their military role of deterrence and to be ready for deployment to troubled areas or for expansion in the event of increased international tension
