The Holiday Map:

Maps and the Internet M.P. Peterson, International Cartographic Association, 2005-12-17 This book examines a new trend affecting cartography and geographic information science. Presenting the work of over 30 authors from 16 different countries the book provides an overview of current research in the new area of Internet Cartography. Chapters deal with the growth of this form of map distribution, uses in education, privacy issues and technical aspects from the point of view of the map provider including Internet protocols such as XML and SVG. Many see the Internet as a revolution for cartography. Previously tied to the medium of paper and expensive large format color print technology, maps had a limited distribution and use. The Internet made it possible to not only distribute maps to a much larger audience but also to incorporate interaction and animation in the display. Maps have also become timelier with some maps of traffic and weather being updated every few minutes. In addition, it is now possible to access maps from servers throughout the world. Finally, the Internet has made historic maps available for viewing to the public that were previously only available in map libraries with limited access. Provides comprehensive coverage of maps and the internet. Delivers a global perspective. Combines theoretical and practical aspects.

Map-based Mobile Services Liqiu Meng, Alexander Zipf, Tumasch Reichenbacher, 2005-12-05 The development of wireless telecommunication and ubiquitous computing technologies has led to a growing mobile population and dramatically changed patterns of working and everyday life. A smooth and safe mobility is only possible when the mobile person is well informed of the happenings in his ambient environments. Location sensitive maps have proved a strong enhancement to what a mobile user can directly perceive from his ambient environments. Since ancient times the map has been the favorite communication language of spatial information. It is even more the case for mobile applications where brand new maps can be wirelessly retrieved or generated in real time. The upsurge of map based services on mobile devices has raised a number of new questions challenging the conventional computer assisted cartography. Map based mobile services provides a contemporary overview of research and development issues related to the design and the use of mobility supporting maps. The book has been written for professional cartographers who are striving for extending their theoretical, methodological and practical knowledge to mobile mapping for surveyors and geo service providers involved in the development of intelligent location based services for software developers and cognitive scientists engaged in human computer interaction and for students and academics in cartography and geoinformation sciences. The book was initiated by the multidisciplinary workshop Design of map based mobile services within the frame of the conference Human and Computer 2003 Interaction on the movement held in Stuttgart Germany September 2003.
